Clerk Kills Girl, Confesses Murder to Pastor

LOVE SLAYER OBEYS PRIEST, SURRENDERS

Dapper New Yorker Spends Gay Night, Fires Death Gun as Girl Spurns Pleas.

Pulls Weapon From Brief Case as Girl Turns Back to Enter Apartment.

(By International News Service)

NEW YORK — A love-crazed suitor shot a 25-year-old secretary to death today after she told him their romance was over, then calmly confessed his crime to a Catholic priest who persuaded him to surrender to police.

The dead girl, Marie Joyce, was found lying in front of her apartment door. A bullet from a powerful big-game hunting rifle had been fired through the back of her head.

The shooting was admitted by John Bellinger, 33, a dapper Englishman employed as a clerk in the convention bureau of the New York Merchants association.

Appeals Rejected.

"She told me she didn't want to see me any more. I couldn't go on without her," Bellinger, without emotion, told police. "I took the gun out of a brief case and fired when she turned around to go into her apartment."

Through a gay night of wining and dancing, Bellinger had carried the death rifle which he had sawed down to almost side-arm size, in a brief case while he pleaded with the girl to resume their love affair which at one time had reached the stage where they had been ready to announce their engagement.

His pleas had left her cold, Bellinger said. After visiting several bars he took her home. Bellinger pressed his cause to the end

"No, I don't think we had better see each other any more," he quoted the Joyce girl as saying in farewell

She turned to unlock her door

Gets His 'Stolen' $6,000 Camera and Car Back But - - -

His $6,000 camera and his automobile returned, J. C. Gregory, a Dayton photographer, was breathing a lot easier today, but at the same time he couldn't help feeling just a little abashed.

It all happened like this:

He told police yesterday that a hitch-hiker he picked up in Delaware and drove to Mansfield had stolen his automobile and his valuable aerial camera.

Gregory, an aerial photographer, said he was en route to Cleveland and had stopped off at the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company on a business matter. He left the keys in the car and told the youth that he would be out shortly—but if he was detained that the hitch-hiker should move the car to Wayne from East Fourth street.

Detained longer than he had anticipated, Gregory came out to find the car and the youth missing, he reported to police. Late yesterday detectives found the car abandoned on Freeman street — and the $6,000 camera still in the car.

They said they believed the youth had misunderstood directions about moving the car and had driven onto Freeman street instead of Wayne street and then had taken his own bag and caught another "lift."

Discuss New Relief Fund Plan Today

City, County, Township Officials Confer on Borrowing Laws.

City, county and Madison township officials today were to go into a conference at the city building to discuss means of financing relief loads for the balance of this year.

Mayor Claude M Hunter said this morning that the group was to meet in his office this afternoon to discuss a borrowing proposition whereby the county's subdivisions could issue notes on two separate plans in order to obtain the necessary amounts each would need to meet their burden for the balance of the year and pay off their present indebtedness.

He explained that the city, already $35,000 in arrears on payment of food bills, would probably seek to borrow $30,000 from anticipated state taxes.

Must Match Fund.

The plan he said calls for the issuance of notes against 90 per cent of anticipated beer malt wort admissions and public excise taxes through 1941—but the city, according to City Solicitor Marion D. Ward, must match the funds with an equal amount in order to obtain the grant.

This, the mayor said, calls for a second borrowing plan, which will be discussed this afternoon. The plan calls for borrowing up to 70 per cent of the anticipated collection of delinquent taxes. These funds would be used for matching the funds borrowed from anticipated state taxes.

Hunter said it was hoped that all details of the borrowing program could be worked out with the city solicitor and county prosecutor so that legislation could be prepared for a meeting of city council early next week.

Figures released by Joseph T. Furgeson, state treasurer, two weeks ago, showed that Richland county sub-divisions could borrow up to $108,000 on their anticipated beer, malt, wort, admissions and public utility excise taxes. Under the 70 per cent borrowing plan against the anticipated collection of delinquent taxes the sub-divisions could gain approximately $130,000 for matching purposes.

SINK FREIGHTER

Insurgent Planes Bomb Ship En Route to Algeria.

LONDON —(AP)— The Spanish (government) press agency today reported Spanish insurgent warplanes bombed and sank the 1,363-ton British Freighter Stanbrook, the second ship owned by the same company attacked today by insurgent raiders.

The agency said the Stanbrook sank in the port of Vallcarca, also known as Villa Garcia, 25 miles south of Barcelona on Spain's Mediterranean coast, after a bombardment by five Savoi (Italian-made) planes.

Earlier the 2,600-ton Stanforth wirelessed she was "deliberately bombed" at sea off Barcelona while enroute to Oran, Algeria. She was not damaged. Both vessels belonged to the Stanhope Shipping company. No casualties were reported on either ship.

Next was Jesse Polance, who sang "To The Sweetest Girl In San Antonio" just before he was strapped in the chair. Polance, who died for slaying a bus driver in a holdup, said he composed the song in "Death Row."

Harvey Roush To Increase Death Row Population to 14.

MARION — (INS) — Harvey Roush, 48, sentenced to die Dec. 1 in the electric chair for the murder of his landlord, Homer T. Myers, was to leave the Marion county jail this afternoon for Ohio penitentiary's death row, sheriffs deputies announced.

Roush will be the 14th person in death row and if electrocuted will be the third man sentenced from Marion county to pay the supreme penalty.

Push Probe of Missouri 'Cellar Slaying'

Mystery continues to shroud the death of pretty Mrs Ella Lamance, 29, whose battered body was found in an abandoned vegetable cellar near her home in Laclede, Mo. Dr. William Lamance, 34, former boxer and evangelist's son, insisted he was innocent of any connection with the slaying. A state trooper is shown examining clues at the doorway to the cellar where the body of Mrs. Lamance was found. At the right, Dr. Lamance is shown at funeral services for his wife. He is being held in jail for questioning.

TAVERN OWNERS FACE CHARGES

City Councilman Among Three Accused of Illegal Sunday Sale of Liquor.

Operators of three Mansfield and Springfield township taverns, including one operated by a Mansfield city councilman, awaited hearings today before Common Pleas Judge C. H. Huston on charges of illegal sale of intoxicating liquor on Sunday.

Named in the affidavits, filed by J W Eichelberger, state liquor investigator, were Fred Miller, councilman from the fifth ward and operator of a tavern at 151 Orange street; Frank Miller, proprietor of the Cloverleaf tavern, 115 North Main street, and F. J. Van Arnhem, proprietor of Van's tavern, on route 30-S in Springfield township.

At preliminary hearings before Judge Huston this morning, Frank Miller and Van Arnhem pleaded innocent and were released under $250 bond each. Their hearings were set for Sept. 8.

Fred Miller, who is in Michigan on a vaction, will be cited after his return to Mansfield early next week, county authorities said. Notice to appear in court was served on the other two defendants late yesterday by Sheriff E. P. Long.

The filing of charges followed the alleged purchase of whisky at the three taverns Sunday afternoon by Eichelberger. In the affidavits, Eichelberger said he made

BULLET WOUND PROVES FATAL

Suspect In Kidnaping Dies; Accomplice Pleads Guilty.

GRAND RAPIDS, Minn.—(INS)—Otis James Meredith, 21, one of the two alleged kidnapers of a St. Louis society girl and her escort died here early today from bullet wounds suffered when he was caught in a G-man trap.

Meredith's accomplice, John Couch, 23, has pleaded guilty to the abduction of Miss Viola Cecili Gross, 23, and Daniel C Fahey, jr., an architect, in St Louis last Friday. He is being held in St. Paul under $200,000 bond.

Lid-Less Mail Boxes Here Cause Uncle Sam to Frown

300 of Them Need Paint or They're Obsolete, Survey Shows; Warning Says They'll Have to Be Fixed.

Uncle Sam turned a critical eye on Mansfield's rural mail routes today and found almost 300 mail boxes that do not meet with his requirements.

As a result there will be a clean-up drive with the gentleman in the high hat and flag-striped trousers as director, according to Postmaster Herman E Homberger.

The defective boxes were reported by rural mail carriers in conforming with a drive that is being conducted by the federal postal department.

However, the boxes that do not meet requirements represent only about 12 per cent of the total on the six routes, for there are 2,455 mail boxes serviced by carriers from the Mansfield office, Homberger said.

Order 'Means Business.'

And because Uncle Sam means business when he issues an order, the boxes must be brought up to standard immediately or the owners will forfeit rural free delivery, the postmaster pointed out.

The most frequent defect is a box without a lid, while many of them lean a little to the side.

A few of the requirements cited by Homberger are: obsolete boxes must be replaced with new ones; old boxes of standard requirement must be painted and plainly lettered with the owner's name; boxes without lids must also be replaced, boxes out of line must be straightened; the distance from the box to the ground level must be 48 inches; boxes must be so located that carriers can deliver and collect mail from the box without leaving his vehicle.

All persons living on rural routes have been notified by carriers of the postal requirements and defects have been pointed out to them. Failure to correct the fault immediately will result in loss of mail service, Homberger said today.

Finds He's His Own Election Opponent

KEARNEY, Neb. —(AP)— Frank Green of Gibbon, will oppose himself for Buffalo county surveyor in the November election.

Green was unopposed in the Republican primary. There were no Democratic candidates but Green won enough write-in votes to get the party nomination.

FINAL RUSH ON

Taxpayers Jam Courthouse as Deadline Approaches.

County Treasurer John E. Kolb's office buzzed with activity today as taxpayers attempted to get under the Saturday deadline for payment of last half real estate levies

Meanwhile, Kolb repeated his warning that there will be no extension beyond tomorrow for payment of the final half year property tax. The treasurer's office, however, will remain open until 3:30 p. m. Saturday to accommodate last minute taxpayers, Kolb said.

Off to a slow start at the opening of the collection period July 5, receipts had climbed to $375,120 today, approximately $195,000 short of the goal of $570,000.

Yesterday's collections of $66,683 were the highest for any single day since the tax books opened last month.

FALLS FROM TRAPEZE

Allergens (Hay Fever Imps to You) Are In the Air These Days—So Beware

Season Has Arrived for Tear-Filled Eyes and Sniffling Noses.

By JANE WILLIAMS

You may not be Little Orphan Annie—but the allergens will get you if you don't watch out!

This is the season for 'em, and if you see your friends going around with streaming eyes, ditto noses, and a dispirited outlook on life, you'll know that their allergens have got 'em.

Allergens lurk in ragweed and goldenrod about this time of year—they may even be hiding on the horse's neck or in the chicken's feathers. The causes may be various things, but the results are all the same—and all unpleasant.

This is the beginning of hay fever season and it lasts until the pollen and fluff of weeds are "gone with the wind," or until the first frosts put the skids under the allergens.

Many Mansfielders take to cooler climes when hay fever season comes galavanting over the hills and fields; they go as far north as the wilds of northern Ontario and Quebec and as far west as California.

One Mansfielder who is allergic to horse hair this time of year and who spends considerable time on his farm, will go to California when the first sneeze hits him and remain there for six weeks.

A Mansfield woman who spent ten days in an oxygen tent last year as the result of an aggravated case of hay fever went to Mackinac Island two weeks ago and will remain until the first frost.

There are, however, a lot of hay fever sufferers who can't leave their homes, who have to remain and fight it out with their allergens, and for them the

NEW BUILDING PUTS RICHLAND TAX VALUES UP

Improvements in County Add $2,000,000 to Real Estate, Utility Valuations.

CITY TAX RATE LOWER

Increases on Duplicate After New Appraisal to Amount to Nearly $5,000,000.

Residential and industrial improvements, together with new building, are largely responsible for the approximate $2,000,000 increase in real estate appraisal values in Mansfield, according to County Auditor Norman L. Wolfe, who today announced completion of the equalization of real estate tax values in Richland county

Total additions to appraisal values in Richland county will approximate $5,000,000, bringing the new duplicate to slightly more than $90,000,000, which will result in an increase of about $75,000 in real estate taxes payable next year.

Cut 40 Per Cent.

The auditor's figures show that since 1930 tax values in the county have been reduced nearly 40 per cent and that there has also been a 25 per cent cut in tax rates during that time. As a result the real estate tax bill for Richland county has been cut in half.

Appraisal and equalization of real estate tax values is required every six years under Ohio law.

Wolfe said the new values will be open for inspection at the auditor's office in the courthouse after Aug. 23, Shelby values will be on file at the Shelby city hall.

Protests against the new valuations may be made in writing by the property owner on or before the time for payment of next year's real estate taxes, Wolfe said. Complaints must be filed with the county auditor on blanks furnished by him.

All complaints, except those against assessments made by the state tax commission, will be heard by the county board of re-

CUT IN SIGHT

Pension Fund Low as Liquor Revenues Decrease.

COLUMBUS — (AP) — State Finance Director M. Ray Allison said today a cut in old age pensions appeared imperative before the end of this year unless liquor revenues increased sharply.

Allison said he and other administrative officers were considering whether to make the cut on August pensions or again borrow from general revenue funds to pay on the present average of $23 a month. He said approximately $400,000 additional would be required for August payments on the present basis.

If a cut in pensions is decided upon, Allison said, the amount of the reduction would average about $3.75. It would be applied horizontally, on a percentage basis, with those receiving the largest grants taking the largest reduction. The finance director said liquor revenues were about 10 per cent under estimates made at the beginning of the year.

HOODED BANDIT FLEES ON BIKE

Wears Burlap Sack Over Head as He Robs Lima Hotel of $60.

LIMA —(UP)— A hooded bandit today robbed two Kirwan hotel clerks of $60. The clerks told police the bandit emptied a cash drawer and then fled on a bicycle.

Although wearing a burlap sack over his head, police said the description of the bandit as furnished by the clerk did not tally with those of a "burlap sack" robber who has terrorized northwestern Ohio for the past several months.

HEADS TEACHERS

Ousted Yale Professor Reelected to Third Term at Cedar Point.

CEDAR POINT—(UP)—Dr. Jerome Davis, ousted Yale university professor, will be installed for his third term as president of the American Federation of Teachers at the concluding session of the annual convention here today. Dr. Davis defeated Miss Lillian Merstein, Chicago, for the office.

Receives Honor

Honored by Pope Pius XI and by his bishop, the Rt. Rev. R. C. Goebel, pastor of St. Peter's parish and dean of the Mansfield deanery, is one of the nine churchmen of the Toledo diocese to be made a domestic prelate with the title of "Monsignor." The announcement was made yesterday at Toledo upon the return of Bishop Karl J. Alter from an audience with Pope Pius at the Vatican. The honor was conferred upon Monsignor Goebel in recognition of his work, his study and his learning.

POPE HONORS REV. GOEBEL

Confers Title of 'Monsignor' on Mansfield Priest by Vatican Decree.

The Rt. Rev. R. C. Goebel, pastor of St. Peter's parish, and dean of the Mansfield deanery, has been made a domestic prelate of the Toledo diocese of America, with the title and honor of "Monsignor" conferred upon him by Pope Pius XI, on recommendation of the Most Rev. Karl J. Alter, D.D., bishop of Toledo.

The announcement was made yesterday in Toledo after the bishop returned to his diocese from a visit to Europe and an audience with the head of the Catholic church in Rome

Nine priests from the diocese, which is made up of 19 counties in northern Ohio, were selected for the ecclesiastical honor. The title and office is conferred on the basis of work and learning, and honors the city and parish as well as the churchman himself.

The title carries with it privileges and certain authorities and makes the holder a member of the Pope's household. It confers the right upon the prelate to use the title "Right Reverend" and "Monsignor" instead of "Reverend" and "Father." It is comparable with that of a bishop without a jurisdiction.

No announcement was made as to the time and place of the formal investiture of the nine men who were honored. The letters of appointment, bearing the seal of the head of the church, were given to churchmen in Toledo, Sandusky, Lima, Defiance, Fremont, Tiffin and Mansfield.

Monsignor Goebel came to the Mansfield parish March 15, 1923.

SHANGHAI—(UP)—A Japanese military spokesman said today that reinforced Japanese columns were attacking Chinese lines at all points in the upper Yangtse river valley in preparation for a renewed drive on Hankow.

The Chinese admitted that the pressure against their lines had been renewed but claimed that the Japanese were unable to use their motorized equipment because of the flooded terrain.

Roosevelt Has No Comment To Make On New Neighbors.

HYDE PARK, N. Y. — (AP) — President Roosevelt is going out on his front lawn and take a look at Father Divine's new "heaven" across the Hudson river.

The new "heaven" was sold to Father Divine in July by Howland Spencer, an opponent of Mr. Roosevelt's policies.

WITNESS SAYS MONEY CALLED 'LAWYER FEES'

Policy Game Operator Tells Jury Part of Collection Went to Tammany Chief.

Dewey Scores as Jurors Hear Hines Got Job for Supporter in 'Numbers House.'

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Joseph "Big Joe" Ison, 47, a West Indian and one-time Harlem policy game operator, testified in supreme court today at the conspiracy trial of James J. Hines, Tammany district leader, that money he and other bankers had to turn over to the Dutch Schultz mob was going to "Jimmy Hines' club."

Ison said Hines got $125 a week from the multi-million dollar policy racket for political "protection."

Arrests Drop Off.

The witness said arrests for policy violations dropped 50 per cent late in 1932 and early in 1933—the period shortly after Hines, according to District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey's accusations, entered into a conspiracy with Dutch Schultz to "put the fix" on the racket.

"Big Joe" said the money was recorded on the policy slip books as "fees" for lawyers and bondsmen.

"I was puzzled at first what the figures meant," he said.

He said he talked it over with George Weinberg and J. Richard (Dixie) Davis, and that one of them told him:

"The money is going to Jimmy Hines' club."

Earlier, with one of Dewey's aids accused of brow-beating and "coercing" a witness, the district attorney called Edward Grant, grand jury stenographer, to testify.

Grant was called to swear to the accuracy of grand jury minutes which the witnesses had challenged.

The stenographer identified the minutes and Defense Attorney Lloyd Paul Stryker conceded their accuracy.

Apparently still incensed at the recantation of the witness, however, Dewey insisted on read-

Hobson suffered a fractured skull, and George suffered body bruises and laceration.

According to witnesses, Hobson's truck was following the highway truck which was scraping the side of the highway. Failing to see the state truck because of a dust cloud, Hobson's truck struck the rear of the state car and overturned.

Hobson was born in Morrow county Jan. 27, 1875. He is survived by his wife, Mary; a daughter, Mrs. Martha Hart of Mt. Gilead; four sons, Arthur, Eccles and Charles of Mt. Gilead and Stanley of Fredericktown, and four brothers, Joseph of Columbus, Eber of Norman, Okla., Charles of Ashley and William of Galion.

CLAIM VICTORIES

HENDAYE, French-Spanish Frontier — (U.P.) — Loyalist reports said today that government troops had won victories in the northeast and southwest despite heavy Nationalist pressure.

COUNCIL CLAIM SEEKS $2,000

Central Avenue Resident Says WPA Cut Away Grade in Front of Property.

City council had before it today a $2,000 claim for property damage as the result of the improvement of Central avenue last year by the Works Progress administration.

The claim on file with Council Clerk William J Beer, jr., seeks $2,000 damages for the cutting away the support of 253 feet of frontage owned by Frank G. Witter, Ashland road.

Witter, whose property is located on the northeast corner of Ashland road and Central avenue, claims that during the construction of Central avenue the west side of his property facing Central avenue was cut away "leaving an unsupported bank from 10 to 11 feet above the grade established on the street.

He claims the city was responsible for the damage to his lot, which had been improved to a "reasonable grade." He states that the street grade has been reduced to a point where it is damaging.

DOCTOR USES BEE STINGS

Gets Venom to Ease Pain of Arthritis Patients.

LOS ANGELES—(U.P.)—Dr. Raymond B. Carey has received the city's permission to keep a colony of bees in his office, because he uses them in the treatment of arthritis. The bee's sting contains a venom which is "hemorrhagic and neurotoxic," he says, and patients endure it to rid themselves of the more persistent pains of disease.

FIRE TRUCKS STOP ON 'RED'

London Rules Lost Minutes Won't Be Harmful.

LONDON— (AP) —Fire engines and ambulances do not have the right of way at traffic lights. A justice ruled recently in awarding $17,500 damages to a man who was injured when a car in which he was riding collided with a fire truck.

If the light turns red, they must wait like other vehicles, he said. "In this case there would have been a couple of seconds lost and no more."

Open Letter To Don About Petting

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX
Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage.

This is the last in the series of articles on petting being presented on The News-Journal Woman's Page by the famous authority on problems of love and marriage, Beatrice Fairfax. In these articles Miss Fairfax tells the whys and wherefores of modern youth's "psychological revolution" in regard to petting, and discusses the fundamental dangers of petting along with the attitudes of both the old and young.

Dear Don:

As you must know, you're the best-looking, most likable boy in your crowd. When you feel like petting, it would be pretty hard for a girl to say 'No" to you. And, of course, no girl ever does. But you mean no harm to these girls; you're generous and warm-hearted. That's why I'm writing you this letter.

What's on for tonight? Most likely it's a shimmery summer evening. Soft, warm air. No wind or cloud. Just enough moonlight—not too much. After a long day filled with hard, prosy work, you'll want something different. A girl who'll listen and understand. But she must be a smiling, cuddly girl. So you'll jump in your car, pick up Betty or Peggy, you really don't care which, and head for that quiet woody road where you've been so often.

Both you and Betty—or Peggy—know perfectly well that you're embarked on a petting party. In love with each other? Nothing of the sort. But you want to relax. And a nice, sweet girl with a gift for nestling is a great help toward relaxation.

As for Betty, she doesn't want to spend an evening alone. She's especially flattered, besides, to be dated up by you. To tell the truth, she likes to have a boy want to kiss her. Otherwise, why should she go to so much trouble to make herself attractive — charming; fragrant little blossom that she is?

Often, too, she likes to return those kisses. If the boy makes love tenderly . . . if he whispers sweet, stirring things . . . if the kisses aren't too long . . . if the boy doesn't go too far . . . if her own personality doesn't slip away from her . . . if he doesn't want more than she ought to give . . . if she can honestly say, as she drops limply out of the car, late in the evening, "Thanks, Don, I've had a swell time . . . "

You see, it's no fun for a girl to feel fussed and sorry and all stirred up, the next day; to wish that she might never see a boy again.

So, Don, what am I asking of you?

Surely, not to force the matter of falling in love. Not to hurry up and marry some Betty or Peggy for whom you have only a light, friendly feeling. That wouldn't do.

But just try to remember that at any time, any moment, even, you may fall in love with some girl you've never seen before and want to marry her. A girl named Mary, let us say. And when you do, she will mean all the world to you

But how about the petting parties into which some other Don may have enticed this Mary of yours? You'll want to believe, won't you, that nothing of the sort has happened? That she's pretty much without experience? You'll want to think that there's something fresh and untouched and crisply Mary-ish about her; that she hasn't been all mussed up and pawed over and crushed down, the lovely outlines of her girlish self obliterated by the Toms, Dicks and Harrys of a hundred petting-parties?

Heaven grant that you may find such a girl and that you'll truly love each other and that there may not be a hint of mockery in the silver pealing of your marriage bells.

Meanwhile, what about the other fellow? The one who's going to fall in love with Betty or Peggy and start in right away to idealize her? Don't you feel you should play square with him?

Going too far with Betty or Peggy—even if you can bring yourself, as many boys do, to feel no responsibility for the unfortunate girls themselves — isn't playing square with the other fellow.

What do you think about it?

HOROSCOPE

For Saturday, August 20.

A PARTICULARLY lively and probably refreshing and productive day is forecast from the ruling astral influences. It is possible that private, social or romantic interests also may play an important part in business relations. But be wise as to cunning or deceptive situations or agreements, although proper subtlety has advantages.

If This Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is may expect a rather arresting and intriguing year, with the secret and curious playing a part in both business and private relations. Strategy may help in both, and friendship is a factor to be manipulated tactfully.

A child born on this day may be clever, enterprising and industrious, but may have an attractive and compelling personality that may prove a chief asset, winning it preferment from those in position.

Egg Dishes Quickly Prepared

By ALICE LYNN BARRY

WHEN IT is necessary to serve snacks often, the cook needs a pretty extensive repertoire of egg dishes. With this thought in mind, we offer some excellent recipes that are good for a bite or for luncheon or supper.

Omelettes and souffles are always welcome and are particularly good when catering to an invalid of a convalescent. For a delicate, creamy omelette, break six eggs into a bowl. Beat lightly, and add one-half teaspoon salt, one-quarter teaspoon pepper and one-half pint white sauce(cold). Melt three tablespoons of buttter and cook eggs in ordinary omelette fashion. Serve on a hot dish with some white sauce poured round.

Success in souffles depends largely upon the freshness and quality of the eggs, and the whites being whisked to a stiff froth. And the eggs should be beaten in an absolutely dry, very cold bowl with utensils that are entirely free from any moisture. A pinch of salt will aid the beating, and many a good cook does the whisking of the egg whites by an open window. And it is imperative that the souffles be served immediately after they are cooked in the little souffle cases or dish in which they have been heated, or they will go flat. An oven souffle must be absolutely hot.

Tasty Egg Dish.

Six eggs, one teaspoon anchovy paste, one tablespoon butter, one teaspoon minced parsley and paprika are the ingredients for an exceptionally tasty egg dish. Beat the egg yolks until light. Add minced parsley and anchovy paste. Fold in stiffly-beaten whites and blend. Melt butter in heavy iron pan and pour in mixture. Cook until bottom is brown, then place in 350F. oven and brown top. Serve at once sprinkled with paprika.

Egg and cheese toast is a nice tidbit, easily and quickly prepared. It calls for three slightly-beaten eggs, one quarter cup milk, one-quarter teaspoon salt, dash of pepper, tablespoon butter, one-half cup grated cheese, four slices toast and tomato catsup. Combine eggs, salt, pepper and milk together. Melt butter and pour in egg mixture, stirring constantly until eggs are cooked. Spread the toast with tomato catsup, heap each piece with scrambled eggs and cover with grated cheese. Place in broiler to melt and brown the cheese. Serve at once.

Clam Omelet.

Clam omelet is a New England favorite along the sea coast. A popular recipe calls for one cup hard clams, six eggs, separated; two-thirds cup cream, heaping tablespoon butter, one teaspoon salt and paprika. After clams have been cleaned, put them through a foodchopper and saute in the melted butter. Add the salt and paprika to the egg yolks and beat until light, then add the cream and chopped clams. Mix thoroughly. Fold in the stiffly-beaten egg whites and pour mixture into well buttered omelet pan or skillet, and bake in moderate oven for about 25 minutes, or until brown.

To remove scorch from linen place between two dampened Turkish towels and press with a hot iron. The scorch stains will go into the towel and can be easily washed out.

Mildew may be successfully removed by using kerosene. Saturate the garment with it thoroughly, roll it up and put it away for 24 hours. Wash in warm suds and all trace of mildew will be gone.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

THERE WAS such child-like eagerness and excited thrill in my mother-in-law's voice that I hated to deprive her of a peek into the barred chamber where Queen Olga lay under Katherine's care and that of her daughter. But I knew that Katherine was counting on keeping her patient quiet, and my doughty mother-in-law is usually anything but a soporific influence.

But, I reflected, a moment or two of extra company would not harm Olga. She had rallied beautifully from her swoon, and I felt that we all owed Dicky's mother something for the prompt unselfishness with which she had left her post downstairs to come to the nursery and release Katherine for attendance upon the sick queen.

Needs Nothing.

"I am sure they don't need anything now," I said. "The queen was to have a tray in her room as soon as she came up, and I imagine Katherine and Olina are seeing that she eats something. But in a very few minutes, Olina will be going downstairs to her supper, and then I am sure the queen will want to see you. I'll just go across and tell Katherine you are ready to help her in any way."

"And I'll be sitting just inside this door, leaving it a bit ajar so that I'll be ready whenever she wants me," she said happily, and I was divided between an impulse to mirth, and one to chokiness at the child-likeness of her attitude.

I hurried across to Mary's room and gave a light knock which Katherine knows. She came to the door directly, and without stepping inside I told her about Mother Graham's desire to see Queen Olga when Olina went downstairs.

Gives Permission.

For the fraction of a second she hesitated while her professional training battled with her instincts. Then she laughed noiselessly.

"Tell her to come across as soon as she sees Olina go downstairs," she said, and I scurried back to my mother-in-law with my message, adding the caution to draw all the shades in the nursery suite. I had seen through the crack in the door of the barred room that Katherine already had tightly closed both shades, and this caution to my mother-in-law would insure a tightly-screened second floor.

Mother Graham drew herself up with dignity as I delivered Katherine's message.

"I am exceedingly grateful to her," she said "I was afraid she was going to be difficult."

I caught back the retort that Katherine was never difficult, and smiled at the older women instead.

Asks For Tray.

"Thank you so much for all you've done, Mother," I said heartily. "And now, if you'll excuse me, I really must go down and see to the supper. Mayn't I send you up something on a tray?"

She toyed with the thought for a second, and then gave the assent I expected.

"Why yes, that would be very nice," she said. "Please have Katie send me—" and she outlined a supper which would involve Katie's preparing two dishes outside her supper menu.

But I knew better than to voice the slightest protest. She was in a genial satisfied mood now, and I wanted to keep her in it

"I'll see that you have everything," I told her. "When do you want it?"

"Oh! not now," she answered, flustered "I don't want anything to interfere—I can just as well wait until after the rest all have supper. Really, I would prefer it that way."

Rejoins Dicky.

She could not help injecting the martyr complex, I told myself amusedly, but I knew that this particular time I was safe in agreeing with her.

"Just as you like," I told her. "I'll run up before Olina is ready to come back, and find out just when you would like it."

"That is very thoughtful of you, my dear daughter," she said graciously, and with the accolade I went down the hall, meeting Dicky coming from the room occupied by Bill and Hank.

"Everything under control," he whispered, smiling. "Shall we go downstairs?"

"Yes," I rejoined, "but first, tell your mother that you have closed the shades in the boys' rooms. Else—"

"Else she'll be barging in," Dicky finished under his breath, and with a grimace at me. But his mother did not wait for him to come to her. Her voice sounded low, displeased and imperative from the doorway:

"Richard, come here!"

Natural Eyebrows Favored

By MME. QUI VIVE

Of all beauty nonsense the annihilation of eyebrows heads the list. Some of the little dearhearts made such a thorough job of it there wasn't another hair to pull. They yanked them all out, used a crayon. Think of that. The old time poets used to write sonnets to their ladies' eyebrows. A fine lot of inspiration they'd have these days with an eyebrow looking like a single thread of darning cotton.

We desire to announce to the young things who are bent on eyebrow killing that the fad has run its course. If they persist in presenting blank foreheads to the public eye, they will be rated as has-beens. Let them trim 'em, weed 'em, brush 'em, pet 'em, but let them survive. They were created for the purpose of giving expression to the face, not to make the human portrait look like the mask of a chronic questioner. You know! Eyebrows hoisted beyond the line of naturalness.

The beauty trade throughout the world where beauty shops flourish has cried "Enough." Instead of taking your forehead scimitars to be demolished by an expert, you take them there to have them coaxed back to a normal growth. They're oiled, brushed and frictioned.

Return of Brows.

While fuzzers on the chin seem to thrive on plucking, coming back stronger, meaner and blacker, the silky threads that form the eyebrows get discouraged. The growth is delicate, close to the surface of the skin, gives up the ghost without much resistance. So more than one girl, eager to have eyebrows that are mere shadows, has found to her surprise that the growth is not what it was before the tweezing terror started.

Exotic looking beauties of the silver screen took to separating their eyebrows until the space between them was almost as wide as the eye was long. Effective for stunning types, and good material for the camera. But in the bright light of day these spaces, where shafts were uprooted, bore a paler color. Unless the plucking was done daily, tiny black points were noticeable. All that's in the discard. Foreheads are neat again.

Frenzied, distorted eyebrows dominate the facescape. One sees them before one glances at pretty eyes or heavenly coiffure. That's a loss in beauty values. The feminine face should be a harmonious composition, features friendly. The makeup artist understands that fact. He shapes the eyebrows so that they will conform to the outline of the eyes, the curves of the lips, the shape of the nostrils.

Let the eyebrow follow the line of the eye socket. There is one rule that must not be broken.

My Neighbor Says:

The flowers of the common peony sometimes have a rather disagreeable odor, yet it is one of the oldest garden plants grown. It usually grows to a height of two or three feet, and the common types are double red, rose and white.

The Chinese is the largest of the common garden varieties, growing two to three feet tall. It produces flowers in clusters of two to five.

The golden peony has been in cultivation a comparatively short time. There are some hybirds between this species and other forms which are not commonly available. Then the tree peony has woody stems and is quite shrub-like, growing from three to six feet in height. The flowers are large and have a wide range of color, from white to crimson.

If your family likes variety, serve stewed prunes, apricots, fresh berries, applesauce, fruit juices and fresh fruits. A whole week can be covered without repetition.

Celery which has become wilted may be freshened by standing in a jug of water to which a pinch of bicarbonate of soda has been added.

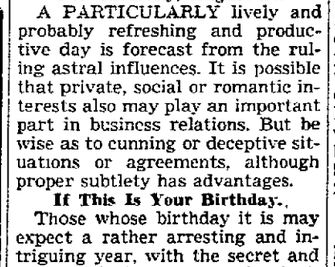
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay
"The Authority on Authorities"

COMBINATION FINESSES

A GUARDED queen has just as much chance to take a trick if it is opposite the ace of its suit as if it were in the same hand. When you lead a small card toward it, the chances are 50-50 that it will win. If the first opponent to play on the trick has the king, the queen is sure to be set up. Of course, if the last opponent has the king, she is doomed.



(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

After a 1-Spade bid by South, North called 1-No Trump, South 3-Spades and North 4-Spades.

The heart Q was led by West and won in the South hand. East won the spade K with the A and returned a heart to South's A. A spade was led to the 9 and an effort made to finesse the club J, which was no finesse at all. When this lost to West's Q, the heart 10 was taken, and followed by a diamond to East's K.

With a loser in each suit, South's only hope for game was to find the diamond K with East. It was there but he did not take advantage of that fact. He had enough entries in dummy and should have used one of them to lead a low diamond toward his Q. Had he done that only three tricks would have been lost, one spade, one diamond and one heart; the diamond A providing a spot for the club J.

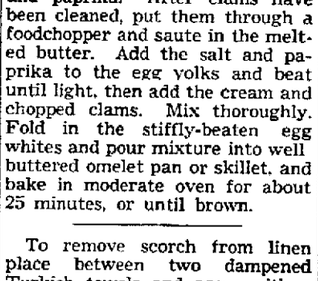
Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)

What is South's best play for 4-Hearts, having lost two spade tricks and ruffed the third?

HENRY MUST BE SLIPPING, LAST TWO OPPONENTS STUCK THE DISTANCE.

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK—(AP)—Poor old Armstrong, he must be slipping—his last two opponents stuck the distance. . . . The three H's of the Green Bay Packers—Herber, Hutton and Hinkle—have incorporated and are holding out until each gets what he wants. . . . Jimmy Kelly, the Greenwich Village hot spot king, was run in by a cop for refusing to stop arguing on Broadway over the Ambers-Armstrong outcome. . . . No more outdoor boxing shows here this year. . . . Future biz goes into the Garden.

Believe it or not: Using only a baseball bat and a billiard cue, Ernie Thomlinson toured a nine-hole Oklahoma City golf course the other day in only 49 strokes. . . . And two southpaws finished one, two in a tournament at Moberly, Mo. . . . I. Ames and A. Ringer form an umpiring team in the Vermont-New York league. . . . Harry Lasater, star tackle at Illinois, owns a racing stable of eight hay burners. . . . Radio listeners thought Ambers had won—just like a lot of same thought Farr beat Joe Louis.

It used to be the boys would settle for one "white hope." . . . Now they're looking for five. . . . That many of the recognized boxing classes are commanded by colored boys. . . . Instead of taking it off, Babe Ruth has been adding poundage since joining up with the Dodgers. . . . "Chalky" Wright, the featherweight Eddie Mead has signed as "policeman" for Henry Armstrong, used to chauffeur Mae West around Hollywood. . . . Dolph Camilli, big Dodger first sacker, is a brother of the Frankie Campbell who died after a bout with Max Baer on the coast some time back. . . . Armstrong ought to watch himself—he lands far too many below the belt.

How in the world could Referee Billy Kavanagh score the 13th—far and away Ambers' best round—an even heat? . . . Cubs are going to get out an injunction against Joe Medwick of the Cards. . . . That guy is poison to their catchers. . . . Twice foul tips from Joe's bat have put Assistant Catcher Ken O'Dea on the shelf. . . . And the other day Gabby Hartnett caught one of Joe's tips on the end of a finger and went to the sidelines. . . . If the Bruin catchers never see Joe again it will be soon enough. . . . Something is in the air between Mike Jacobs and the Garden.

Hubbell Joins Lefty Grove On Sore Arm List

Develops Bad Wing In Defeat

Giants' Star May Be Lost for Balance of Season; Sees Specialist.

By SID FEDER
(Associated Press Sports Writer.)

KING CARL HUBBELL joined Lefty Grove on the sore arm list today, and the New York Giants' pennant stock, like that of the Boston Red Sox before it, hit the skids in a neat nosedive.

Hubbell, clubbed by the Brooklyn Dodgers, 5-3, yesterday, came up with an ailing pitching wing that may necessitate an operation. It will keep him on the sidelines for at least a week or two, and may prevent him from taking his place on the firing line the rest of the year.

Both on Sidelines.

Here are the two greatest left-handers of their day, Old Square-pants and Old Mose—probably the most feared pitching pair in the game—in the last six or eight years—and both shelved in the same month.

Dr. J. Spencer Speed, the Memphis bone specialist, has been asked to meet the Giants either in Chicago Monday or St. Louis later in the week to X-ray, and if an operation is necessary—that is if a chipped bone is revealed—it will be performed immediately.

Certainly if Hubbell, always the most reliable of the Giants' tossers, is out of action for the rest of the season, or for any length of time, the New Yorkers may just as well wrap up their pennant hopes and pack them in mothballs. They're five games back of the Pirates right now, with the season past the two-thirds mark.

Fortunately for Bill Terry's Terriers, their setback yesterday didn't send them farther in the hole, for the Pirates absorbed a 5-1 drubbing at the hands of the St. Louis Cardinals and Lefty Bob Weiland's four-hit hurling.

The Yankees, despite a double split with Washington, saw their American league lead stretched to nine full games when the second-place Cleveland Indians (and Bobby Feller) had their ears pinned back, 9-1, by the St. Louis Browns. Wes Ferrell, making his Yankee debut, outlasted his exmates for a 6-5 win in the 11-inning opener. Harry Kelly tossed a six-hitter for a 6-3 decision for the Nats in the nightcap.

Pitching Features.

Throughout the big league program, good pitching abounded. Buck Newsom's three-hitter featured the Browns' win over the Indians, enabling the Brownies to climb into a seventh-place tie. Jim Bagby turned in a three-hitter and the Red Sox whitewashed the Athletics, 2-0. Paul Derringer allowed seven hits, chipped in a homer himself, and the Cincinnati Reds ripped the Cubs, 9-1. Long George Gill's eight-hit effort gave the Tigers a 5-1 verdict over the Chicago White Sox.

Armstrong To Meet Garcia

NEW YORK — (U.P.) — Henry (Three Crown) Armstrong, of Los Angeles, will defend his world welterweight championship against Ceferino Garcia of the Philippines at Madison Square Garden as soon as his injured lower lip heals, Eddie Mead, his manager, said today.

Mead, after conferring with Promoter Mike Jacobs, said the defense might not be staged until late October, or November because of the severe cuts Armstrong suffered Wednesday night when he wrested the lightweight title from Lou Ambers. He said it probably would be two or three months before Armstrong would be in condition to fight.

After the welter defense, Armstrong will defend the featherweight title on Dec 6 if Promoter Jacobs will permit him to campaign outside New York City. Jacobs has Henry under contract for three years.

Despite its box office appeal, Mead and Jacobs agreed that a return lightweight tilt between Armstrong and Ambers would have to wait until after Christmas. Mead said Armstrong first would have to defend his other two crowns in order not to violate the six-month rule.

Armstrong's lower lip was patched up with 15 stitches and his physician said it was the worst cut he had seen in 13 years repairing fighters.

Tribe Regrets Not Taking Buck In Trade

St. Louis Ace Sets Indians Down With Five Hits.

CLEVELAND—(U.P.)—Just prior to the deadline for inter-league trades on June 15 the cellar-dwelling St. Louis Browns attempted to engineer a swap with the Cleveland Indians that centered around Pitcher "Buck" Newsom.

Cleveland, then in first place and with a pitching staff that was clicking at top speed, rejected the offer and today the Tribe officials had another occasion to regret the action.

Newsom, tireless "Buck," who works in turn and out of turn and is the American league's current "iron man," hung up his 14th victory of the season yesterday when the Browns plastered Cleveland 9 to 1. It was his fourth win of the year over the Indians.

What do Newsom's 14 victories constitute? They represent better than one-third of the triumphs credited to St. Louis this season and give him more wins than any moundsman on the roster of the second-place Indians can boast.

Newsom was in top form yesterday. He gave the Tribe only five widely spaced hits and struck out eight men. The Browns' ace now has fanned 163 men this year to pace the league in that division.

Cleveland's only run off Newsom came in the fifth as the result of doubles by Sammy Hale and Lyn Lary.

Pound Feller.

While Newsom had the Tribe at his mercy, his teammates pounded Bob Feller, Kenny Jungles and Wilis Hudlin for 12 hits. Included in the Browns' barrage were six doubles and a triple.

Feller started and was knocked from the hill before he could retire a man in the fifth. In addition to permitting seven hits the Iowa farm boy walked six men and hit another for one of his most dismal performances of the year.

Jungles gave up four hits in three innings and Hudlin one in two.

Cleveland's loss coupled with an even break the New York Yankees secured in a twin bill against Washington dropped the Tribe nine full games out of the lead.

The Indians were to open a series today with the Chicago White Sox. Denny Galehouse and Monte Stratton were to be the opposing hurlers.

Yankees Greatest Club In Baseball—Ruth.

NEW YORK—(INS)—Take it from Babe Ruth, the Yanks are by all odds the greatest club in baseball. "They're in a class all by themselves," said the big fellow, whose 60 homers are still a season's target for the Greenbergs, the Yorks and the Foxxes to shoot at.

"But," he hastened to add, "take the Yanks out of the American league and you'll find the rest of the clubs stack up about even with the National league clubs.

After spending the entire season in the cellar position, the Lodgemen spurted at Possum Run yesterday to climb into a tie for fifth place with Al's Kicks and Ohio Public Service.

The Elks climaxed their season with a 5 to 0 victory over the Auxter Motors, who fell heir to the basement post when the Lodgemen climbed out.

Two teams finished in a tie for third place. The News-Journals, led by V. H. Oberlander's 38, defeated the champion Bissman company club, 4 to 1, to tie the Central Fruits, who were blanked by O. P. S.

The Mansfield Metal Vaults, who finished second, three points behind the champions, defeated Al's Kicks, 4 to 1, in the other match.

Medal honors yesterday were annexed by Gene Zediker of the Elks, who clubbed out a 37.

Ohio Seniors Return To Westbrook Club

More Than 100 Golfers Expected to Compete In Tenth Annual Tournament Here Sept. 1-2.

FOR the ninth time since the formation of the Ohio Senior's golf association 10 years ago, the organization will stage the annual tournament at the Westbrook Country club.

The dates for the two-day 36-hole tournament are Thursday and Friday, Sept. 1 and 2.

Players Over 50.

The organization consists of golfers more than 50 years of age and this year the afair is expected to attract a field of more than 100 players, according to Ed Baxter, secretary of the association.

This tournament is annually one of the outstanding golf events in the state, and the type of golf that is played in this competition has been well above the average.

In fact, the winner of each tournament has won in near-par figures.

E. W. Phelps of Cleveland still one of the outstanding amateur golfers in Cleveland, won the championship last year, and he is expected to return to defend his laurels this year.

Other outstanding golfers from Cleveland, Toledo, Columbus, Akron and Zanesville will compete in Mansfield's September classic.

Due to the central location of Mansfield and the splendid course that is available here, the tournament has been staged in Mansfield at Westbrook every year but one. Five years ago the tournament was held in Dayton.

18 Holes Each Day.

The medal tournament is divided into two days of play, with 18 holes scheduled each day. A feature of the tournament is the annual banquet which is staged at the clubhouse in the evening of the first day of the tournament.

E. M. Ayers of Zanesville is president of the association.

They Charge Admission—to Reduce the Crowd At the Strangest Sports Classic on Earth

Defending Trap Champ Isn't Given a Chance.

By FRITZ HOWELL

VANDALIA —(AP)— Sportdom's queerest classic the Grand American trapshoot, has its 38th annual renewal Aug. 22-26 at the permanent home of the Amateur Trapshooting association here on the banks of the Miami.

Why the queerest sports event? Take a look:

They charge a 40-cent admission—not to gain revenue, but to hold down the number of spectators. (Fancy the fight, wrestling or baseball men pulling one like that.)

The amateurs shoot for cash prizes, while the professionals get trophies only. (Try that one on your golfers.)

The novices always win the Grand American handicap — the premier event—with the recognized stars finishing down in the ruck. (It's as if a pygmy should whip Joe Louis, or a sandlotter be called as a pinch-hitter and deliver a home run with the bases loaded to win a World Series.)

1,000,000 Targets.

A thousand marksmen, gathered from every state in the union, Mexico, the Canal Zone and all of Canada's provinces, will fire a million 12-gauge shotgun shells at a million flying clay targets during the five-day shoot as they vie for more than $50,000 in prizes.

Practically everyone except an expert, a left-hander or a woman has captured the big handicap. Among the winners are listed a 14-year-old boy, a 70-year-old man, a preacher, a railroad conductor, a former big-league ball player, an oil magnate, an unemployed electrician, a 50-year-old first-year shooter, and a hardware salesman.

For the last four years the title has gone to shooters making their first start in the big classic, but the blow-off came in 1937 when F. G. Carroll, 35-year-old hardware store owner of Brecksville, O., who had never appeared in a prize shoot of any kind, broke 100 targets in a row to top a field of 932 in the greatest scoring spree the event has ever experienced.

Third Perfect Score.

Carroll's perfect score was the third "100" broken in the 38-year-old feature. On his heels with 99 of 100 were 11 other shooters, and that score would have won 31 of the previous 37 shoots.

And Amateurs Get Cash, While Pros Get Trophies.

Before the big Carroll explosion other first-timers walked off with the prize. In 1936 it was Ben F. Cheek of Clinton, Ind., who had spent most of his time running a garage and hunting crows. He broke 98 of 100 with a sliding-barrel automatic, rated by experts as the worst possible trap gun. The Hoosier hot-shot had come along, he said, just to watch his son do a little shooting, but was prevailed upon by the boy to take part, the youngster paying the $25 entrance fee.

In 1935 J. B. Royall, railroad conductor from Tallahassee, Fla., cracked 98 of 100 in his first attempt, and in 1934 it was L. G. Dana of Derrick City, Pa., who grabbed the prize. Dana said he "came along just to be with the boys from his gun club," and decided to participate because there wasn't much else to do in this village of 330.

Canzols Win to Reach Finals In Playoff

The Ira D. Ling Canzols, behind the neat five-hit pitching of Theaker, defeated the third-place Liberty Park club, 7 to 1, yesterday at Liberty park to advance to the finals of the Shaughnessy play-off in the City Recreation Senior league.

With Theaker setting the Liberty outfit down with ease, the Canzols who last week won the Senior league championship, hopped into the lead with single tallies in the first and second frames. The losers plated a marker in the third frame, but the Canzols put the game on ice with a five-run uprising in the sixth inning.

Wiegandt paced the Canzols' attack with a triple and double. Udhe was the only Liberty Park player to collect two hits, a double and single.

The Canzols will meet the winner of today's Ontario-Mohican affair in the finals at 6 p. m. Tuesday at Liberty park.

THEATER

"IDIOT'S DELIGHT," Robert Sherwood's Pulitzer prize-winning play goes into production next week with Clarence Brown directing Norma Shearer and Clark Gable in the roles that were created by Lynn Fontanne and Alfred Lunt. Reuniting Miss Shearer and Gable for the first time since their memorable performances together in "A Free Soul" (which started Gable on the road to stardom) and "Strange Interlude," the M-G-M picture brings them to the screen in the roles of an American girl posing as a countess, and a song and dance man. The picture goes before the cameras just as both stars have completed outstanding films; Miss Shearer's "Marie Antoinette" and Gable's "Too Hot to Handle."

The two stars were announced for "Idiot's Delight" more than a year ago, and the year has been spent in preparation.

"Rasslin" a Mountain.

Probably all "rasslin" matches are supposed to be funny, but in "The Gladiator," current attraction at the Madison, the "rasslin" sequences between Joe E. Brown and Man Mountain Dean are hilarious. The bewhiskered behemoth world's heavyweight champion, certainly could make mincemeat out of Brown, but for the story Brown is shown making the champion howl with pain, knocking him out of the ring, holding him aloft like a child and otherwise doing superhuman feats of strength—all under the admiring eyes of pretty June Travis. The picture has a college locale with Brown as the perpetual freshman.

Imitates Stars.

Jane Withers is embarked upon her fourth season as a Hollywood star for "Keep Smiling" is the first picture of her 1938-39 program. The picture, which the Ohio offers, gives Jane an opportunity to do the stunt she does best of anything—imitations. In her new picture she impersonates such film stars as Deanna Durbin, Bobby Breen, Joan Davis, George Arliss and Harry Ritz. She is shown as a movie child, a young star who is being launched on a career. A romantic theme is carried out by Henry Wilcoxon and Gloria Stuart, while supporting players are Jed Prouty and Helen Westley.

Action on the Range.

Tuneful range music and comedy touches lighten the thrill-packed story of "West of Cheyenne" which brings Charles Starrett to the Majestic screen today for two days. Starrett is involved in a mystery when he becomes interested in the Bar-W ranch where he is confronted by an anxious, armed girl, and a story of how two former owners have been mysteriously slain. The hard-riding plainsman narrowly escapes a slayer's bullet but escapes to uncover the dark secret of Bar-W. "Danger On the Air," a murder mystery laid in a broadcasting studio. Donald Woods and Nan Grey head the cast.

Frontier Romance.

A perilous romance on the old Arizona frontier, backgrounds the adventures of a United States marshal in "Gun Law," starring George O'Brien, and opening at the Ritz today. Saved from dying of thirst on the Painted Desert by a girl and her preacher-father, O'Brien accompanies them to the desert town of Gunsight. While he is really a law enforcement officer, he poses as a desperado to gather evidence he needs to clinch his cases. His plan leads to exciting complications including a hold-up, a near-lynching and hand-to-hand encounters. The Jones Family in "Hot Water" is the second feature.

BUDGE, HUNT MAY MEET IN TENNIS FINALS

NEWPORT, R. I.—(AP)— An all-California final between Oakland's Don Budge, the defending titlist, and Los Angeles' Joe Hunt, became a strong probability today in the Newport Casino tournament as the two moved into semi-final matches in opposite brackets.

Budge, nursing an ailing right arm, was paired with Frank Parker of Beverly Hills, Calif., and Hunt was called into action against Sydney Wood of New York. Budge's arm trouble was not regarded as serious.

LEADERS HOLD ON TO SMALL OPENING GAINS

Motors Prominent on Upside in First Half Hour; Steels Lose Ground.

(By International News Service)

NEW YORK—The stock market developed a firmer tone today, but continued in the grip of general speculative listlessness. Price changes were limited to small fractions, and volume again ran at a full-day rate of close to a half-million shares.

Stocks were generally a shade higher at the opening, but trading was maintained at the dull pace of recent sessions. Gains were increased moderately until light profit-taking was encountered at the end of the first hour. Leaders then settled back in a narrow range with the majority holding on to small gains.

Motors, as in the preceding session, were prominent on the upside during the first half-hour. General motors was up about a point and Chrysler almost as much, but these gains were pared to a minimum in later transactions.

Rubbers, mail orders, rails and electrical equipments also were in fair demand. Steels were firm early, but gave up gains in the second hour.

American Can, Bethlehem Steel, Sears Roebuck, Union Carbide and Westinghouse Electric were among the stocks to show top gains of a point or more.

Among the issues to slip behind minus signs late in the forenoon were North American, Standard Oil of California, Loew's and Cerro de Pasco.

TESTIFIES MOB PAID HINES CLUB

i ; the minutes to the Hines jury.

The prosecutor emphasized a quotation by the witness, Julius (Red) Williams, 46 a South Carolina-born colored man and an election captain in Hines' West Harlem ward, that Hines specifically sent him to the policy racket headquarters of the Dutch Schultz mob to get a job.

Williams was recommitted to Thomas prison last night as a material witness when Justice Ferdinand Pecora raised his bail, at Dewey's request, from $500 to $10,000.

Reading the jury minutes, Dewey quoted Williams as having testified that he went to see George Weinberg, a Schultz mobster, and saying: "I told him Mr. Hines told me to come up and see i m."

The power of Hines' name in the Schultz racket headquarters, the witness testified, led to his getting a $30-a-week job "doing very little."

Next on the stand came a flashily-dressed West Indian, "Big Joe" Ison, 47, also nicknamed "Spasm," who told of entering the policy game in 1923, rising to control a large policy-game bank and then being "absorbed" by the Dutch Schultz mob in 1931.

Ison testified that in 1930, before the Schultz mob "muscled in" in his business, he was taking an average of between $8,000 and $14,000 daily—mostly in pennies, nickels and dimes.

Ison said that before Schultz took over actual control of his bank, putting him on a weekly salary, he had been paying the mob $600 a week under threat of death.

Ison's story of the gang "ride" threats was ordered stricken out after Justice Pecora decided it did not enter in the time-period fixed for the conspiracy in the Hines indictments.

Leaving Williams the most discomfited man in the courtroom after a blistering, mocking examination, Dewey said he would call Gelb and another assistant, Frank S. Hogan, as witnesses.

Gelb, who at 29 is one of the oldest members of the district attorney's youthful staff, previously aided in sending Vice Overlord Charles (Lucky) Luciano to prison for 30 to 50 years.

Williams denied every significant admission attributed to him in the signed statement Gelb held yesterday.

He denied that Weinberg gave him $30 or that he worked for the policy racketeer. Reiterating that "I met him in 1935," he denied ever knowing Hines in 1932.

Though admitting he signed the statement, Williams said under the kindly cross-examination of Hines' counsel, Lloyd Paul Stryker, that Gelb dictated it.

The witness added he did not know what the statement contained because, he said, he could not read but was ashamed to admit his illiteracy to Gelb.

On re-direct examination, Dewey produced a transcript of testimony which he said Williams gave to the special grand jury and which contained substantially the same admissions as the statement.

Hunched forward in the witness chair, his huge hands tightly interlaced, the witness hesitated, mumbled and groped for answers to Dewey's barrage of questions—a dejected figure in a tieless blue shirt and rumpled suit.

FEAR FOUL PLAY

Sons Fear Mother Robbed, Poisoned, Ask Autopsy.

BOSTON—(INS)—Convinced that Mrs. Esther H. Wolfe, 68, was poisoned and robbed of $8,000 she carried in a pouch concealed in her clothing while visiting Portland, Me., last November, two sons seek permission to have the body exhumed for an autopsy.

The sons claimed that the money, all in old gold notes of high denomination, and jewelry their mother wore when she left for Maine, were missing when her body was brought here. The sons claimed she was in good health when she left, but died suddenly four days later.

Maine authorities, however, declared that the medical examiner who signed the death certificate was convinced Mrs. Wolfe died of natural causes in a Portland hotel.

A soft answer may not always turn away wrath, but it saves a lot of time.

MORO PRINCESS CONTENT TO FORGET DAYS AS U. S. CO-ED

(By United Press)

JOLO, Sulu, P. I.—Princess Tarhata Rtik Kiram, whose education at the University of Illinois was an experiment that failed, apparently is not sorry she declined to help speed the change in civilization for 300,000 Moros in the Sulu archipelago.

American lipstick, fur coats, football games and evening dresses are things of the past to the princess, who was to have been a "missionary" in the westernization of the Filipino Mohammedans.

She is living alone in apparent contentment in a simple dwelling on Jolo island like thousands of other Moros. She refuses to be questioned about her collegiate interlude in America in the early 1920s.

Her short skirts from Urbana have been replaced by Moro sarongs. She has abandoned chewing gum for betel nut, which has blackened her filed teeth.

The Americanization of the princess was the idea of Frank W. Carpenter, then governor of the Department of Mindanao and Sulu of the Philippine government. He sent Tarhata, still in her teens to Manila for preliminary education.

In the hope that education-by-example would hasten the transition of the Moros from their warlike ways, Governor Carpenter sent the princess to Illinois. She was accompanied by Miss Carmen Aguinaldo, daughter of the Philippine revolutionary leader, Gen. Emilio Aguinaldo.

Tarhata abandoned her American civilization in record time when she returned to Sulu and the experiment has never been tried again. Western ways are seeping into the Moro civilization, but gradually.

Princess Tarhata is living with her second husband, Datu Buyongan. She divorced her first husband, Datu Tahil, while he was in prison for sedition. She is the only wife of Datu Buyongan. Datu Tahil was a polygamist.

Operates, Removes Three - Inch Wire From Cow's Heart

POMEROY—(INS)—A cow, which was near death, is a healthy specimen today thanks to the success of an unusual operation.

The bovine, owned by County Commissioner Arthur Beegle, became ill suddenly and the illness was diagnosed as indigestion. But the cow continued to grow worse despite all the medicine administered by the veterinary

The veterinary, James Stansbury, of Athens, upon a second examination, declared the cow apparently was suffering from an obstruction in the heart and asked permission to operate.

With the aid of his son, Stansbury cut into the cow's flesh and removed a rib leaving a gap large enough to insert a hand and arm.

Probing the cow's heart with his fingers, Stansbury discovered a piece of bailing wire about three inches in length had penetrated the animal's heart. He said the cow probably would have died within a short time had the obstruction not been removed

After a few days of convalescence, bossy went back to the pasture and is now doing fine with one juicy prime rib gone.

28 TAKE EXAM TONIGHT FOR SCHOOL POST

Eligibles for Attendance Officer to Be Certified; Labor Grades Ready.

Twenty-eight applicants will take the civil service examination for attendance officer for Mansfield schools tonight at the city building, Atty. George Biddle, secretary of the civil service commission, said today.

Biddle said that approximately 45 applications had been received by the commission, but that several had been rejected because of failure to pass the physical examination while two were thrown out because of the city residence requirement.

The examination has been set for 7:30 p. m. in the municipal court room at the city building, Biddle said.

70 Passing Grade.

He explained that examination papers would be graded next week and that applicants who have made a grade of 70 or over will be placed on the civil service eligible list. He said that three certifications of those having the highest grades will be sent to the board of education immediately.

The board several weeks ago requested certifications in order to make an appointment to fill the vacancy created by the death of Arthur H. Wood four months ago. The commission had no eligible list and therefore is conducting the examinations for the purpose of preparing one.

Meanwhile, Biddle said, papers on the recent examination held for city Class A labor had been graded and it is expected that grades will be announced next week. He said that the eligibility list would be prepared for certifying names to the service director for appointment, as soon as the request is made.

The service director will then have the authority to appoint present Class A employes certified to him or replace present laborers from the certified list sent him by the commission.

This action is the first step by the civil service commission to place all municipal employes under the merit rating system as approved by the commission several months ago.

CLAIM SETTLED

Judge OK's $350 Settlement for Child's Injuries.

Probate Judge C. J. Anderson today had authorized Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Stull, 117 Bowman street, to accept $350 for injuries suffered by their daughter, Margaret, 7, when struck by an automobile last April.

C. A. Friddell, Mansfield, driver of the car which allegedly struck the child, agreed on the settlement but denied responsibility for the accident.

Acceptance of the amount by the parents assures Friddell of immunity from further court action involving the child's injuries.

FIND SHORTAGE

Examiner's Report Shows Officials Overpaid.

COLUMBUS —(ONS)— Findings totaling $7,356 have been returned in favor of Jefferson county by state examiners reporting on the period of Nov. 20, 1935 to Sept. 28, 1937.

Most of the deficiencies were of a minor nature but two former county officials were named in the report and it was also revealed that Jefferson county paid for the upkeep over a period of a year for Frank Sasso who died in the state institution for feeble minded on Sept. 27, 1936. The latter finding emounted to $3,087.92 and has been satisfactorily settled.

Examiners A. H. Hartlett and Harry C. Rigby claimed that E. Y. McDougal, former county treasurer drew $754.41 in excess of his salary. McDougal has reimbursed the treasury, the report said. H. K. Robinson, former county auditor, drew $401.98 in excess of his salary over the period, the examiners said.

BOARD TAKES FORMAL ACTION ON BOND VOTE

School Heads Request County Election Officials for Special Election.

Meeting in a special session at 11 a. m. today, the Mansfield board of education passed a resolution asking the county election board for a special election Sept. 20 on the proposed $550,000 school bond issue, defeated at the Aug. 9 primary.

The action was merely a formality, since the school board yesterday was granted permission by the state tax commission to resubmit the bond issue, and the county election board was given verbal notice of the election.

Will Order Ballots.

Plans for ordering ballots and preparing for the election were expected to be completed tonight at a meeting of the election board at the courthouse.

The bond issue, which would supplement a $450,000 PWA grant approved a week ago by the federal government would provide for the construction of two new junior high school buildings, an addition to Senior high school and modernization of eight elementary buildings.

The bond issue must be approved before Oct. 1 to permit the school board to use the PWA allocation.

Meanwhile early interest in the special election and the November election as well was shown today by dozens of Mansfielders who registered with the county board of elections on the first day of the new registration period.

Except for a five-day period preceding the special election Sept. 20, registrations and transfers will be received by the election board until Oct. 10, election board attaches said.

WATCH OUT FOR THE ALLERGENS!

Hay Fever Season's Here So Sniffs and Snuffles Are Common These Days.

health department offers a few suggestions that may help.

There is a hay fever mask which may be obtained from the larger drug houses, which prevents pollen and dust from reaching the sensitive nasal membranes, and this may be worn on rides through the country.

Every hay fever sufferer knows enough to stay away from the major carriers of allergy-imps—goldenrod and ragweed. But dust is also one of the boogies and rides over dusty roads should be avoided. (This point could also be used by the housewife sufferer as a nice "out" on cleaning and dusting.)

Insist on the neighbors keeping their weeds cut. If your home is located on a high point, you are fortunate, for high places which are not swept by pollen-laden wind provide sanctuary for the hay fever victim. (If worst comes to worst you could always sit on top the Richland Trust or Farmers Bank buildings where the air is comparatively free from dust and pollen.)

And if you can't do any of these things, about the only thing left is try some of the simple medicines prescribed by physicians. They probably won't help much but at least you'll feel that you've done your best.

After that, all you can do is sneeze and sniffle your miserable way through the summer.

OK'S PROJECT

Health Board Approves Plans to Build Softener.

SHELBY — Shelby's $100,000 PWA water softener unit project for the municipal water company today has been approved by the state board of health, according to a letter received from W. H. Hartung, state director, city officials stated.

City officials said that final approval was expected to be given the project by PWA officials at Washington by the first of next week. Construction work on the plant would be started "ten days after final approval," officials explained.

Federal grants of $45,000, or 45% of the project, will be given under the tentative plans, while the city's share as sponsor will be $55,000. A bond issue was approved by Shelby voters this month to finance the city's share.

and Bellinger fired once. The girl died instantly.

Goes to Church.

After the shooting Bellinger took a cab to his apartment where he meditated on his deed for a few minutes. Then he went down the street and hammered on the door of the rectory of the Roman Catholic Church of St. John the Evangelist.

It was then about 2 a. m. Bellinger's pounding awakened Father Joseph Sheehan.

"I've just killed a girl, Father," said Bellinger, his voice quite steady.

The priest asked for more details. Quickly, Bellinger gave him a resume of the shooting.

"I think you had better hand yourself over to police," Father Sheehan advised.

"I'll go if you go along," Bellinger told him.

Together the priest and Bellinger walked to a nearby police station.

"I want to see a detective," Bellinger told the desk lieutenant. "I've just murdered my sweetheart."

Detectives took Bellinger back to the scene of the shooting. The body of the Joyce girl was lying outside the door of her second-floor apartment. Bellinger viewed it without emotion, even when a detective bent down to take the key from the dead girl's hand.

The shot, despite the roar it must have made, had not aroused tenants of the five-story renovated brownstone apartment house, nor the Joyce girl's room-mate, Marie Townsend, who shared the two-room apartment with her.

2 GET PERMITS

Richland Aviators Pass Tests for Pilot Ratings.

Two Richland county flyers today had received their private pilots rating following tests conducted at the Mansfield municipal airport yesterday by W. W. Jarrell, Cleveland U. S. department of air commerce inspector.

The two new pilots are H. E. Seaton, of Shelby, and F. E. Adams, R. D. 4, Shelby, both of whom have been receiving flying instructions from J. R. Harrington, airport manager, for the past several months.

Their examinations yesterday consisted of a written examination and flight test conducted by Jarrell who visits the Mansfield port every 60 days to review applications and inspect local aircraft.

NEW BUILDING PUTS VALUES UP

vision at the courthouse, the auditor said.

Rate To Be Cut.

New property values will be furnished by the auditor on request to any person who submits the last tax bill for the property and necessary postage for return mail.

Although new tax rates for next year have not been set, Wolfe predicted that the Mansfield rate would be about 15 mills, or .4 of a mill under the 1937 rate, due to the retirement of city school bonds.

The re-appraisal, which was started last year, cost the county $8,000, most of which was spent for a survey of industrial, utility and public property by a Cleveland firm of industrial tax appraisers, Wolfe said.

He pointed out that the last general county re-appraisal cost $35,000, but it was completed in less time by a staff of special assistants to the auditor. County finnaces would not permit such an expenditure this year, Wolfe explained.

In most cases, the value of farm property remains unchanged, since it was found that there had been little shifting in farm values in the county during the past few years," he added.

Reappraisal and equalization of values in townships probably will not be completed until next year, Wolfe said.

The auditor's figures show that tax values in the county since 1930 generally have decreased nearly 40 per cent, and with the reduction in rates in a number of communities, the county's tax income this year will be about half of the 1930 figure.

"A great many inequalities have been found and properties have been increased where the present value is absolutely too low in comparison with other buildings of the same type," Wolfe declared.

MINERS RESCUED

Four Entombed in Mine Nine Hours, Unharmed.

SCRANTON, Pa. — (U.P.) — Four anthracite miners entombed for nine hours hundreds of feet below the earth's surface were rescued today, alive and unharmed.

The men were on a coal car that was being pulled up a steep slope on a cable, deep in an anthracite mine yesterday afternoon. The cable broke and the car raced, out of control, down the slope. It jumped the track, under-cut timbers supporting the roof of the passage, and, an instant later, tons of dirt and rock tumbled down, sealing them behind a thick wall.

While some rescuers dug at the earth slide, slowly, carefully replacing the shoring lest they cause a new slide, others started driving a pipe through the debris. After hours, the pipe was driven through and soon the entombed were shouting to their rescuers through it, advising them to "take your time" because they were getting good air and were in good condition.

FEAR SALE OF OIL SEIZED BY MEXICO TO DICTATOR NATIONS

WASHINGTON — (INS) — American and British oil seized by Mexico will be sold to Germany, Italy, Spain and Japan to grease the wheels of the tanks and big guns, and drive the engines of bombing planes of their war machines unless the United States is able to dissuade President Cardenas from this course, it was learned today.

An American independent oil operator, W. R. Davis, whose adventures in international financial operations read like fiction, emerged as the agent who may be the medium for the dictator countries obtaining this vital essential of modern warfare.

A second strong American protest is being prepared by the state department, sternly remonstrating with Mexico for its refusal to submit the question of expropriation to international arbitration. It is expected to be dispatched to the Mexican government within the week.

Whether the United States will be able to prevent Mexico from diverting the seized oil to uses of war-like European and Asiatic powers apparently must await settlement of the thorny question of expropriation. Strong pressure, however, is being brought to bear.

Already Davis, who has obtained contracts with the Mexican government for disposition of large portions of its petroleum output, is negotiating with Germany and Italy for its disposition.

Davis said he has contracted to dispose of 10,000,000 barrels of Mexican oil annually, of which 500,000 tons will be sold this year to Germany. Smaller amounts, he said, will be sold to Italy.

Berlin Denflo, 42, of New London, arraigned in municipal court today on a charge of disorderly conduct pleaded guilty and was fined $20 and costs.

600 FARMERS ATTEND PICNIC

All-County Outing Draws Big Crowd to Fairground for Sports Events, Speech.

More than 600 Richland county farmers and members of their families took the day off yesterday to attend the first all-county farm picnic at the Fairground.

Arranged under the supervision of County Agent George B. Ganyard, the outing was held in ideal weather and included ball games and contests, 4-H club demonstrations, a concert by the Ganges band, and a talk by Dr. Felix E. Held, of the college of commerce, Ohio State university. A basket dinner was served at noon.

The picnic was sponsored by county farm organizations, including the farm bureau, soils conservation committee, and 4-H clubs.

County 4-H club representatives to attend the state fair during the week of Aug. 29 were selected from the winners in a dress revue, style show, and club demonstrations.

The winning girls' demonstration team is composed of Sarah Simpson and Mary Harmon, Franklin township, members of a club under the leadership of Mrs. G. C. Simpson.

Other winners included Ralph Hulit, Madison township, individual handicraft demonstration; Evelyn Lash, Mansfield, style revue, and Alice Priess, Madison township, dress revue.

PRESIDENT ENDS CANADIAN TRIP

Prime Minister Expected to Return Visit to Discuss St. Lawrence Seaway.

(By United Press)

HYDE PARK, N. Y.—President Roosevelt returned to the summer White House for a two weeks stay today after two speeches in Canada in which he (1) called upon Canada to join the United States in developing the St. Lawrence seaway and (2) pledged the aid of the United States if Canada is ever threatened with a foreign invasion.

It was reported that Prime Minister MacKenzie King, Mr. Roosevelt's host yesterday, would soon visit Mr. Roosevelt in Washington to discuss means of bringing to a head the treaty providing for joint development of the St. Lawrence which was refused ratification by the senate.

Mr. Roosevelt, dedicating the new international bridge through the Thousand Islands yesterday afternoon, spoke again for a co-operative development of the St. Lawrence valley, denouncing interests which he said would be glad to determine the economic fate of a large area in both countries.

"A conception has been emerging in the United States which is not without certain magnificence," he said. "This is no less than the conviction that if a private group could control the outlet of the Great Lakes basin, the group would have a monopoly in the development of territory larger than many of the great empires in history."

Lingafelter said the offices of the department in the city building will remain open until 4 p. m. Saturday to receive payments. To date only $2,000 of the $8,000 billing has been paid.

Customer of the service will have until next Thursday to pay their bills before their names are placed on the delinquent list. Service to those who have not paid will be discontinued Sept. 1.

HURLS CHARGES AT LA FOLLETTE SENATE GROUP

Dies Committee Accuses Civil Liberties Members of 'Spying' at Meetings.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — In spite of peace efforts by Chairman Martin Dies (D) of Texas, a bitter break between the Dies house un-American activities and the LaFollette senate civil liberties committees was threatened today.

With members of the Dies committee hurling charges at LaFollette committee investigators, with implications of "spying" being dropped, it appeared doubtful that Dies could restrain his colleagues.

Rep. Mosier (D) of Ohio, member of the Dies committee, exclaimed that "if they get funny I'll produce some matter on the LaFollette committee investigators that will blow them out of the water."

Mosier interrupted yesterday's hearing of the Dies committee to demand the reason for the presence of LaFollette committee investigators at the hearing. He demanded to know if "they are trying to hamstring this committee."

Committee Split Looms.

As the Dies committee continued to delve into Communist and Nazi activities, there also was a possibility of a split in the committee itself. Dies fought to prevent the committee taking on an anti-administration aspect as the result of Republicans bringing government officials into it.

"Everyone who is named here will have a chance to appear and defend himself," declared Dies. "We are going to be fair."

Dies said the committee will check the names of several hundred persons named as Communists in the CIO by Joan Frey, an A. F. of L. official, with police records in New York, Chicago and Detroit.

The committee tentatively planned to visit these cities in the near future for this purpose, and to hear additional witnesses.

The inquiry turned into new, explosive grounds today as witnesses were called to testify upon Communist activities in the WPA in New York and other eastern cities.

The inquiry will cover especially the Writers' and Theater Projects of WPA, and Communist activities in school. Two previous WPA administrators in New York have charged rampant Communist activities in the agency.

Documents sought for this phase of the investigation, said Rep. Thomas (R.) of New York, were subpoenaed because the committee could not obtain them voluntarily from the WPA.

The committee also will hear more testimony on the alleged Communist membership of Australian-born Harry Bridges, west coast labor leader, and charges that labor department officials advised him how to escape deportation, if a document air-mailed from Los Angeles arrives.

Just before taking off Corrigan said he will stop a few hours in Toledo en route to Indianapolis.

WASKEIU, Sask. —(AP)— C. C. Shaw and Don Milne, entomologists visiting this community 75 miles north of Prince Albert, are wondering if intemperate moths and beetles have a grapevine system to pass around the words "Free Beer." FRIDAY, AUGUST 19, 1938.

In a perfect world we'd have bottom prices and bonanza profits.

Most people who drive at 70 miles an hour haven't anything important to do when they get there.

The idea seems to be that we need an Edgar Bergen president with a Charley McCarthy senator in each of the 48 states.

Europe's Neutral Nations..

SOMETHING the opposite of explosive seems to be happening in the Balkans, long called the "powder keg of Europe." Acting chiefly "on their own," without the help or advice of the big powers, the little states have been co-operating in unprecedented ways.

There is the Salonika pact which brings Bulgaria into a closer relationship with Turkey, Greece, Yugoslavia and Rumania and may eventually make it a member of the Little Entente.

There is Rumania's new law promising genuine freedom to its racial minorities.

There is the conference of the Little Entente nations in Yugoslavia beginning Aug. 21, at which it is hoped that Hungarian co-operation with the group may be won. Neutrality and self-preservation in the next big war are their purpose.

All these small accomplishments are significant. Put together, they become a definite movement toward European peace. They constitute concrete evidence of the demand for neutrality that is now spreading over a war-scared continent.

Wants Cleaner Landscapes.

ONE OF THE biggest achievements of the world's fair New York City is preparing for may be "cleaning the faces" of surrounding cities, towns and countryside. J. H. Thayer, state tax commissioner in New Jersey, is one of the people trying to do something about it.

The highways of that state will be "literally plastered with signs of all shapes, sizes and colors," he warns, unless something is done in time. People who think it pays to deface scenery are already increasing their demand for permits, hoping to benefit by the heavy traffic while the fair is in progress.

He deplores the present lack of control over the "thousands of hot-dog stands, small lunch rooms or service stations which line the state's major roads on each side." Too many of them, he says, are "ugly and dirty and little more than crude shacks, which can only be considered eyesores."

It is strange that the American public has endured such evils so long. Not even the people who thus spoil the landscape benefit by it, because clutter doesn't attract business, but often repels it.

Revolt Against Smutty 'Realism.'

THE so-called "realism" of many modern novels may finally be reaching limits which even those who pride themselves on being sophisticates will revolt.

Continuance in popularity of a number of wholesome best-sellers may be expected to eventually provide higher standards for capable writers who apparently have felt that they must indulge in pessimism, sadism and gutter language in order to compete in recent fiction trends.

In an article in Atlantic Monthly, Dr. Howard Mumford Jones, professor of English at Harvard, says:

> I am fed up with this interminable procession of weak and cowardly men, strong and brutal men, over-sexed women, under-sexed women, frustrated children, bewildered parents, hopeless farmers and greedy overlords. I have had my fill of cruelty, rape, seduction, incest, Lesbianism, lynching, murder and general hellishness. I am willing to admit that the language of the uneducated has its moments, but I should like to read some merely civilized conversation. I long to be introduced to a cultured human being in a story.

To say that a majority of readers prefer the kind of stories to which Dr. Jones makes reference would seriously indict millions of people who make claim to decency by their affiliation with high-principled church or fraternal organizations.

Commenting on this subject, the Columbus Dispatch says:

> The realistic school of writing (which really began back in the first decade of the present century with Dreiser's "Sister Carrie") never gained much headway until the immediate post-war era. It then attained tremendous vogue as a by-product of the let-down in morality and the general disillusion that followed the greatest and most psychologically disturbing conflict of all time.

The "realism" that some of these books pretend to portray is that of pitiable sub-normalcy rather than of well-balanced human beings who meet life's problems in a sane and sensible way.

Picking out the worst in humanity to present as "realism" to impressionable young people is a poor contribution by gifted writers to the advancement of their generation.

Faithful In Death.

THE LOYALTY of railroad engineers to their duties is proverbial, but the deed of George Amberman of the Long Island railroad, which provides suburban service for New Yorkers, deserves special mention.

Operating a train carrying 300 passengers between Hicksville and Mineola, Amberman was suddenly stricken with a "massive cerebral hemorrhage." Ordinarily this would have meant instant loss of consciousness and control. The engineer refused to yield even in death. He overran two stops a little, signalled to back up, and made it safely both times, so that neither the fireman nor conductor realized anything was wrong, attributing it to wet rails. Finally he made a perfect stop at Mineola. Then he lapsed into unconsciousness and died two hours later.

The public more and more has to entrust its life and fortunes to the skill, judgment and faithfulness of human beings who in some ways are less dependable than machinery. Flesh, blood and nerves may fail. Moral strength and responsibility are something else. No machine has them.

Maybe it isn't right to depend too much on one man, but it does seem that tree surgery has been neglected in Ohio for the past several years.

It remained for a Missouri editor to stem the unending flood by explaining that his linotype just wouldn't set poetry.

Watching Trends

—By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON — For a long time Washington has been hunting evidence of a break between President Roosevelt and Postmaster General Farley. What then should show up but "General Jim's" series of magazine articles packed full of evidence. But the trouble is it can be used to argue both ways.

Farley in his series of articles in American magazine concedes that he likes to pull his punches just a little bit in dealing with political foemen, as well as those opposed—politically or otherwise—to administration policies. Also, he concedes that President Roosevelt has not pulled his punches at times when it would have been smart—as Farley saw it—to have pulled them.

So there you have it. Farley is at odds with the president.

But again, maybe you don't have it. Farley was at odds with the president about those tactics almost before Mr. Roosevelt had seated himself in the White House. And the instances he cites of personal differences with the president for the most part preceded the 1936 election. And in that campaign it was generally understood that Farley was adequately close to Roosevelt—adequately close, in spite of the differences.

FDR Loves a Fight.

HERE is a sample of the evidence of a breach the articles present:

"A fact which few people realize about President Roosevelt," says Mr. Farley, "is that he dearly loves a fight. Indeed, this battling nature of his is the key in many respects to his whole character. I am frank to confess that there have been times when I have felt that the President, from sheer joy of fight, battled too hard, when a compromising attitude might have accomplished more than a direct line drive."

Does that indicate Farley feels that the President's belligerent attitude is truly harmful. Hampering recovery? Maybe, as some believe, it does, but in the balance of the article he loads on the President enough outright praise—if not worship—to call for thinking twice.

In the current article there are two other odds and ends of somewhat whimsical nature. Louis Howe, who was at once the President's light and shadow, made a mistake. Traditionally he was well nigh infallible in political instinct until the day of his death. It was Howe, relates Farley who urged the President to speak out early in his 1932 campaign for a balanced budget. Instead, the President held that off until almost the last thing.

"The budget speech," says Farley, "came back to trouble Roosevelt more than any other speech he ever delivered."

Knows Newspapermen.

THE other item is an instance where something that may have been a reporter's mistake turned into a political landfall. At the famous Albany meeting of Roosevelt and Al Smith in 1932 after the bitter Chicago convention, a White House reporter thought he heard Smith say: "Hello, you old potato."

It dramatized the friendliness (at that time) of the two men who had been opponents at Chicago. Farley says he was standing shoulder to shoulder to the two and didn't hear anything about an old potato, but the term took hold and made many nice headlines.

That reminds us of another story. Some 30 years ago a Spanish Morroccan bandit named Raisuli kidnaped an American named Perdicaris, holding him for $50,000 ransom. The U. S. put the heat on Spain but Spain couldn't get Raisuli out of the mountains. A reporter at the State Department wheedled the secretary of state into sending a telegram to Spain saying: "Perdicaris alive or Raisuli dead."

It didn't scare Raisuli but it did move Spain. Spain simply shelled out the $50,000 ransom and Perdicaris came out of captivity, complaining of Morroccan food.

Timely Editorial

A Young Lifer.

Arrival at Ohio penitentiary of 15-year-old Lindberg Trent, to serve a life sentence for the wanton slaying of a 6-year-old girl is pitiable but it is not important. Young Trent is an unusual type and public interest is centered on his case more because of the morbidity of his crime than for any reason vital to the average individual.

It may or it may not be that his environment was a major factor in contributing to his delinquency. There is no doubt but that a boy in his circumstances would not have the chance for a satisfactory and useful life as a boy from an average home.

Here is a youngster that in all probability is beyond redemption. His is not so much a case of having gone wrong as having been wrong. Society certainly is better off with him beyond the possibility of committing another revolting crime. And perhaps he himself is better off away from temptation.—Columbus Dispatch.

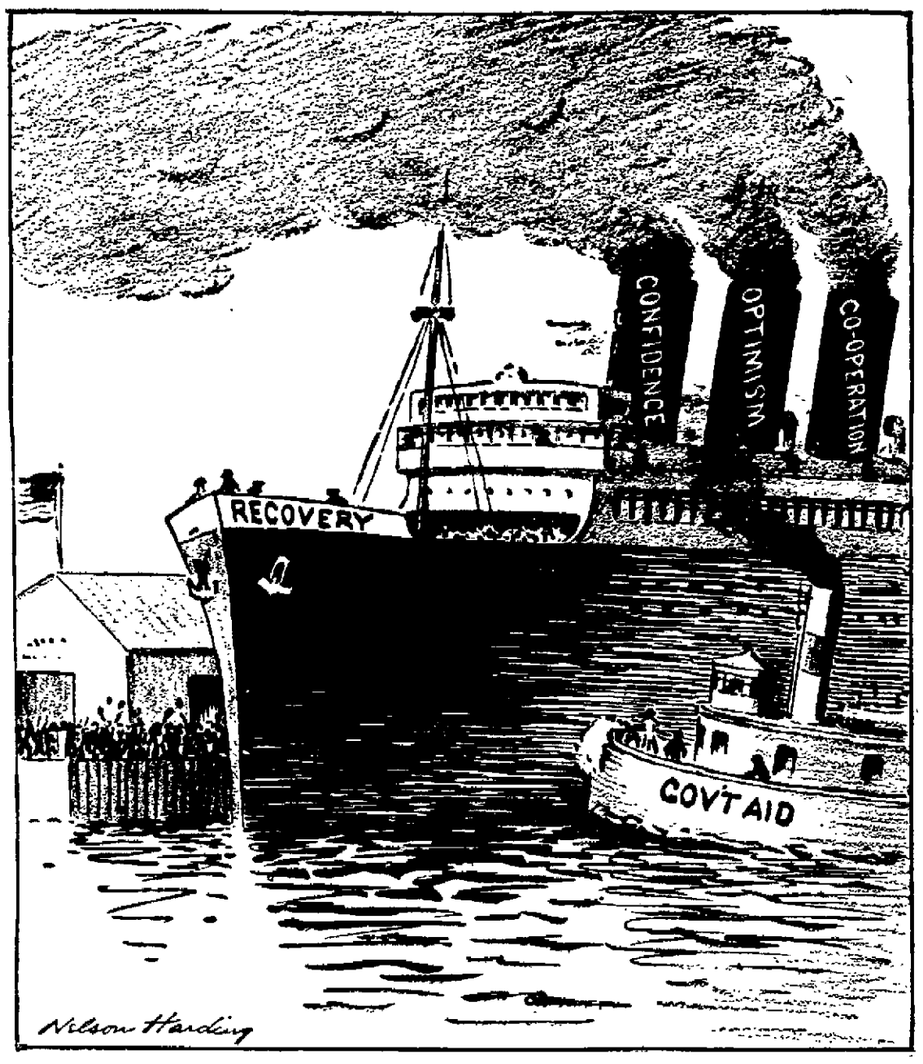
GETTING UP STEAM



The Human Side of the News

—By EDWIN C. HILL

SOME twenty-five centuries ago, whenever the Prophet Jeremiah had an important piece of news for the Jewish people, he dictated it to his faithful friend and secretary, Baruch-Baruch, the Blessed, the Son of Neriah. Another man named Baruch comes today, August 19th, to his 68th birthday, and in excellent health.

Some of the New Dealers do not call Bernard M. Baruch "The Blessed," because he dislikes some of their schemes. The distinguished banker, who has enjoyed the confidence of several Presidents, and who certainly stands in the front rank of the able men of the country, has warned the country that inflation is the road to ruin. He speaks not only from his own experience of forty-eight years as a student of money, but from the experience of a race which has devoted six thousand years of the keenest intelligence to the subject.

For six thousand years the Jewish people, of necessity, have studied the inflexible laws of credit and the phenomena of currencies in ancient Judea, in Phoenicia, in Greece and Egypt and Rome, and on up through the centuries to this day. I doubt if there is much they have overlooked, and that is why the judgment of such an able representative of the race cannot be brushed aside.

In times like these, when the people are bewildered and confused, all kinds of patent medicines are offered for our economic and financial ills. Inflation of the currency is offered in the hope that it will bring better prices for everything that people have to sell, and thereby end the recession. But experience has proved, warned the gray-haired veteran of many business and financial battles, that inflation—cheap money — increases both debts and taxes.

The mere talk of inflation retards recovery because men will not risk money in business if there is nothing but paper and promises to support credit. Business is done not with cash but with credit. If credit is injured or destroyed by inflation, something that has never yet failed to occur, there can by no hope of recovery, and only ruin in prospect.

"If I did not know," said Mr. Baruch, "that there was nothing but destruction to be derived from inflation, I would be the first to advocate its trial. There is no need for complicated plans. The program can be written on a calling card. Balance the budgets of the world."

THE memory of the people is short, and not everyone is old enough, as Mr. Baruch happens to be, to recall what took place about 44 years ago, in the spring of 1894. Conditions were curiously similar to the trials and distresses we have been through. Hundreds of thousands were starving. Industry and business had their backs to the wall. Farmers were being told to quit raising heat and corn and start a revolution. Orators from the silver states were preparing the populace for Bryan's vision of humanity "crucified upon a cross of gold."

One newspaper handed out a million loaves of bread that bitter Spring; another hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of clothing. In a thousand cities, churches and public buildings were sheltering the homeless. Conservative citizens were terrified by fear of a revolution.

That was the Spring that General Jacob Coxey organized his famous army and marched on Washington to scare Congress into a wildcat money scheme—into printing greenbacks as fast as the presses could be made to turn. On a chilly Easter morning Coxey marched from Massillon, Ohio, with a hundred men. At the head of the procession was a color-bearer with the American flag. Behind him, on one of Coxey's stallions, rode his lieutenant, Carl Browne, in boots and buckskins. Then followed several mounted aides and a trumpeter; then General Coxey in his phaeton and a long string of tattered marchers, few of whom had overcoats or gloves to protect them from the piercing cold. Last came the commissary wagons, the band wagon and the newspaper reporters.

FOR five weeks the footsore marchers tramped eastward, passing through Pittsburgh and clambering over icy mountains. For food they depended upon charity along the way. Finally the Massillon detachment, joined by some forty other groups, marched into Washington.

The parade drew more spectators than the presidential inauguration of that era. There were two bands, two Goddesses of Peace, and Coxey's Commonwealers carrying banners inscribed: "Peace on earth, good will to men, but death to interest on bonds."

The finish was inglorious. Coxey and his leaders were arrested for walking on the grass and the army melted away. But the General went back to Massillon still whooping for greenbacks and inflation. Washington itself has seen many a Coxey since those days.

Health Advice

Most Insidious Eye Disease.

—By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

OF THE EYE conditions which impair sight in middle age, glaucoma is the most insidious and for that reason, if no other, the most dangerous. It is not as common as cataract, but not as easy to recognize either for the doctor or patient.

The eyeball is a tough sac which would collapse if it were not filled and kept round by a fluid which is abstracted from the blood. This fluid is transparent and not only makes sight possible, but carries nourishment to parts of the eye which have no circulation of their own, and then flows off through a physiological filter or valve. This automatically regulates the hardness or tension of the eyeball. In glaucoma the filter or valve fails to work, the fluid is retained inside the eyeball, raising the pressure. In the course of time, this increased pressure injures the delicate internal eye structures, with loss of vision proportionate to the amount of pressure and the promptness of treatment.

This tension may be suddenly increased, resulting in acute glaucoma. The symptoms of this are so severe and prostrating that they evidently call for immediate medical examination, and relief usually can be obtained before damage is done. The symptoms are pain, headache, the appearance of rainbows around light, and a terrifying reduction in vision.

Chronic Form Gradual.

The chronic form is far commoner and is so gradual and insidious in its onset that much damage may occur before an oculist can be consulted. The pressure usually affects those portions of the retina where peripheral vision is centered. So that the first symptoms may be gradual diminution of vision on the outside rim of the visual field. The center of vision may be quite clear but the edges dim. Other visual changes are the occurrence of rings of color, rainbow-like around objects, particularly bright objects—lights and mirrors.

These patients are often unfortunately told that they have a beginning cataract, and are advised by some neighbor to sit down until it ripens. Thus valuable time is lost, when they should be under the treatment of an oculist.

The purpose of the recitation of symptoms is not to frighten anyone or cause undue preoccupation with the vision, but to emphasize the desirability, especially after the age of 40, of regular checkups by your oculist.

A Farmer's Diary

Sunset.

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

I WAS picking blackberries in the pasture. The sun was low above the western hills. The colors of the few long clouds were radiant gold and taupe, shaded into scarlet. Far to the north and south, old rose melted into blue. Above, a fleck of cloud floated through a lake of yellow glow.

The sun was sinking down . . . slowly down, as through an open gate, redder now, as it touched the distant hilltop, larger than I remembered ever seeing it, through the intervening trees.

The brilliant streaks of scarlet half way up the sky began to shorten and grow dimmer. The little cloud had lost its color. The mauve and taupe and crimson had almost vanished. Only half the mighty disk was visible, the upper crescent showed a feeble light. I watched it sink, and could easily detect its downward movement.

"Day is dying in the west . . . heaven is touching earth with rest . . ." I felt the south wind breathe over the meadow grass. Twilight came, that softly transient season between the day and night. The vesper sparrow from the leafy bramble sang her sweet notes for the parting day, the barn owl from a perch upon a tall, dead elm, gave out his quivering cries. The outlines of the woods, the borders of the field, the silent hilltop were lost in gathering darkness.

I had forgotten the pail of berries in my hand and set it down. The vessel tipped on the steep hillside and many berries spilled into the high, lush grass. I took the pail upon my arm and started home, still reveling in the inward flash of spirit kindled by the glow of sunset and the passing of the day, which comes so rarely and remains but for a moment.

The light was shining from the kitchen window, and I hurried home to join my family.

Listen, World!

'Most Kids Don't Need College.'

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

(What is the trend of thought in America today. What are the problems that beset your neighbors, from rural crossroads to sophisticated metropolis? Elsie Robinson throws open her column as a clearing house for letters from all America to all America, giving you an opportunity to see your world and yourself through the Other Fellow's eyes.)

A FEW WEEKS before college begins. A few weeks before Dad must mortgage the Ole Farm so college can begin. SO WHAT? DO MOST KIDS NEED THESE SO HEAVILY-EXPENSIVE COLLEGE YEARS? "YES!" cry most Kampus Kiddies with Big Game visions. "NO," chorus two square-shooting Young Americans!

First of which is game young Edman J. C. Cook of Houston, Texas.

"Dear Elsie Robinson—

"Being one of the so-called 'Bewildered Modern Generation,' there are many puzzles I cannot answer. But there is one fact concerning which I am positive, and that is:—The greatest mistake I have ever made, and one which cost me years lost beyond recovery and which will take long years to erase, was accepting a college scholarship.

"Not that I am so narrow as to condemn colleges; nor do I feel that those who make great sacrifices to obtain college educations are making a mistake. But I do firmly believe that if two-thirds of the students attending Liberal Arts Colleges were removed and put to work, or initiated in the horrors of job-hunting or possibly placed in business schools, thousands of misfits would be avoided.

"At the instigation of the head coach of a mid-west institution I spent four years preparing myself for a profession more honorable than remunerative. When the time came to enter into it I was forced to realize that my academic preparation was useless . . . for my ability to make the necessary human contacts — on which success in that line depended—was nil. In short, like millions like myself, I had all the theory but none of the practical prerequisites.

"Actually a good bricklayer, carpenter, machinist, or expert typist is immeasurably more prepared to meet the world than the average college graduate from a Liberal Arts School. Such an expert craftsman knows how to make the human contacts essential to his success . . . contacts which will enable him to be a reliable workman, a dependable family man, a useful citizen. Whereas the average 'college graduate' must either find his special and particular niche—or become a hopeless misfit.

"Personally, I wish I had grabbed a shovel instead of that scholarship. If I had, I would have been four years ahead of where I am today."

Edman J. C. Cook—age 27.
Houston, Texas.

THEN, equally sincere, courageous — but also equally heart-rending — comes this true story from Robert L. Pickering of Oakland, Calif.

"Dear Miss Robinson—

"When modern Joe and Ginger graduate from High School, they consider a college course their 'inalienable right'—as a technical education, a cultural training or a matrimonial come-on. Four 'reasons for a college degree'; but none is effective . . . for no one of them checks with reality.

"Why pretend? We all know that the average male graduate could learn a trade far more thoroughly in a machine shop than in a college lab. The average co-ed could win a husband much more successfully in a chorus than on a campus. And you can get as far with home study or a correspondence school as you can with any diploma—if you're honest enough to admit it.

"I know college. I know kids. And I know most kids don't need college. It helps some of them, but it wastes the time of others. If they know specifically what they want from college, and if college is the only place they can get it, why, they'll get it, and they've got a right to try. But let's not kid ourselves . . . college is not 'an alienable right,' it is not even a necessity—often not even a pleasant or profitable luxury."

Robert L. Pickering—age 20.
Oakland, Calif.

Man About Manhattan

Looks Over New Orleans

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW ORLEANS — Memo: send home a mammy doll. . . . That's one of the great industries here . . . They're in all the department stores and hotels, in all the restaurants and fruit counters . . . Mammy dolls cost from 50 cents to $2.50 . . . You can get them from 'kerchiefed Aunt Sallys to grinning pickaninnies.

Send home some pralines . . . That's another industry peculiar to the city and as great as the chestnut industry in New York. . . . A praline is candy made from sugar and pecans . . . They're in paper-thin layers, and crisp . . . If you buy one it costs you a dime . . . If you buy a dozen, attractively put up in a cotton bale, it costs $1.50.

GO SEE that frog canning company out near the Huey Long bridge . . . They put up frog legs in cans . . . Bullfrog legs, big grandaddy frogs that always sang bass . . . Drop Mel Ott a card from his home town of Gretna . . . Call Edward Laroche Tinker, author of "Toucoutou," and of "Gulf Stream" . . . Check on that chandelier in the St. Charles bar and see if it is really composed of the glass stems from towel racks.

Wire congratulations to Lani McIntyre and Meymo Holt at the Hawaiian Blue Room . . . Telephone Herman Deutsch . . . Buy a copy of Stanley Arthur's "Old New Orleans" . . . Go see the watermelon boats in the old Basin canal, fresh in from Mobile . . . This canal was hand-dug by Irish diggers with spades and shovels . . . They say thousands of them died like flies from yellow fever, and were buried where they fell along the banks of the canal.

Drive out to Shushan airport on Lake Pontchartrain, which certainly is the world's most beautiful landing field . . . I came in at four o'clock in the morning and didn't get to see it . . . Visit the famous Court of the Two Sisters, in the Vieux Varre, which has one of the prettiest courtyards in New Orleans.

Go down to 516 Bourbon street, where Lafcadio Hearn lived in a room facing the site of the old French Opera when he wrote for the City Item . . . Go to No. 941 Bourbon, at the corner of St. Philip, where the LaFitte brothers had their blacksmith shop ("LaFitte's Smithy") which they used as a blind to shield their activities as pirates.

VISIT the Court of the Two Lions, 641 Royal street, where Vincente Nolte (see Anthony Adverse) carried on his cotton commission business . . . It was about this time that an attorney named S. S. Hall came out with a book, "Bliss of Marriage, or How to Get a Rich Wife," so sensational that no less than six duels resulted from it. The book listed the names of all marriagable prospects in and around New Orleans "with the amount of their fortune explicitly stated." The author himself was forced to leave town.

Visit that dairy where there are no cows . . . Ask a policeman if the sun really rises west of the Mississippi in New Orleans . . . Then buy a compass . . . Nobody says north or south here — everything is either uptown, which is south, or downtown, which is north. For east and west (but don't ask me which is which) they say lakeside and riverside.

CHAPTER 20

JULIAN hesitated when he reached the car after Noel had called to him. Then unexpectedly he turned, and came back to her where she stood on the porch.

"All right," Julian's voice came cooly, "what is it you want to say?"

Noel drew a quick breath. Now that she had been given another chance to convince him, she must not fail. "I know it probably does look as if I have—just considered this whole thing as a lark," she began hurriedly, with a feeling all the time that she wasn't really going to get anywhere with her explanation, "but I haven't really, Julian. I'm serious about this thing—have been from the first. Won't you please believe me?"

He looked at her for a moment in silence. Then he said, "How long before you're going to get tired of it anyway? I suppose dancing in such a place with —all kinds of strang men—does have its exciting moments, but I assure you, it gave me a shock to find you there. The last place on earth I expected."

"It isn't really as—awful as it looks," Noel began hopefully. "You see, I had to have a job, and that was the only one I could find. Of course I—intended to get another."

"You didn't have to do that kind of work. There was no reason for it except that—well, it appealed to your love of novelty. When you get bored, you'll quit. And probably not before." Julian's voice was still uncompromising.

Of course he didn't — couldn't understand that she really had no choice, Noel thought. She stood quite still, one arm encircling a porch pillar, trying to think of some way to convince him of her sincerity without divulging the fact that she had started on the adventure with only a little more than a hundred dollars, most of which had been stolen from her. If Julian knew that, she hadn't any doubt whatever of what he would do—insist on financing her out of his own small earnings. Everything would then be spoiled. For Noel was still firm in her intention of showing him that she could stand alone.

"I am hoping to get another place at any moment," Noel went on. "And when I do—" she hesitated.

"I still can see no possible reason why you should have lied," Julian's voice was as stern and cold as before.

She must make him understand, Noel told herself desperately. "Julian, please try to see my position," she began again. "I did have this other place I told you about. At least I felt fairly certain of getting it for several reasons and then—"

"And then you preferred the one at Luigi's club because it promised more excitement," he finished for her.

"That wasn't it at all," Noel cried unhappily, but Julian ignored her protest and went on, "I can easily see that dancing at Luigi's would prove far more interesting than spending your time teaching a child French verbs and five-finger exercises, and," he added, "I couldn't help observing that you are a lovely dancer."

"One of my few accomplishments, "Noel said, her voice holding a little broken note.

"And I suppose telling falsehoods when they suit your convenience is another?" Julian observed with biting irony.

That was the unkindest, the most cutting thing he had said.

"How can you be so unreasonable?" Noel cried, stung.

Once again Julian ignored her hurt voice, and went on in a still bitter and angry voice: "I suppose at this cheap club nearly all the men make love to you, including Luigi, the proprietor, and the tall blond young man with the corrugated hair."

If Noel hadn't been reeling so desperate, she might have laughed at Julian's characteristic description of Chris' hair. But instead, she answered him earnestly, "Not all of them, by any means, Julian. Only—" She started to tell him about Luigi, but her courage failed her.

"You needn't tell me that fellow Luigi doesn't make love to you. I happen to have eyes in my head."

"I'm not—denying it," Noel said unhappily. Then she added with spirit. "Why on earth, Julian can't you realize that I'm quite capable of taking care of myself."

"I'm ready to admit it now," he rejoined. The coldness of his voice lashed at Noel like the thongs of a whip. It was unbelievable, incredible, that she and Julian should be quarreling like this. Her heart felt as if it would burst from the pain of it.

Standing here, facing each other on the porch, Noel knew they couldn't be any farther apart than if he were here alone, and she off on some far distant desert island. If there were only some way to reach him! If he would only unbend ever so little.

"Julian," she began gently, "you've always felt too much responsibility toward me. I started this thing to prove to you that I could make my own way. And that's only what I'm trying to do."

"You've proved yourself quite capable," he returned, "though I think very little of your method. However," he hesitated, then went on, "from now on, my responsibility ceases."

"You mean—" the words came from Noel's lips hoarsely.

"I mean," Julian went on, "that hereafter I'll simply look at your being down here as merely the whim of a rich girl who is bored for a time with buying clothes and traveling, and with all her gay sophisticated friends and so she's doing a bit of slumming for the thrill of it, or any tiny bit of excitement she can find."

He stepped down, and started to the car. "As for any further responsibility toward you, I'm going to take you at your word, and realize that you can look out for yourself without any help or advice from me."

TIGHTEN RULES FOR U. S. ARMY

New Regulations Require Periodical Reports From Over 12,500 Officers.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Great Britain's drastic efforts to strengthen her military forces coincided with a quiet but steady tightening of the American army's efficiency.

New regulations required periodical efficiency reports on major generals as well as on the 12,500 officers below that grade, officials disclosed today.

The single exception is the chief of staff, the only active officer with the rank of full general. He reports to the secretary of war.

Military circles understood the regulation was occasioned by wholesale reshuffling of top ranks. This was caused by the fact that nearly a score of major and brigadier generals reach the retirement age this year.

The high command deemed it had insufficient knowledge of the relative worth of the remaining major generals, particularly those holding the rank temporarily while heading war department bureaus or military special branches.

In a far less spectacular fashion than Britain's "purge" of 13 aging generals, the American high command long before had put a definite accent on youth in promoting and training officers.

Britain hastened the injection of more youthful blood into top ranks by reducing the age limit for active service from 67 to 60 for generals and from 62 to 57 for major generals

EX-BOXER TURNED OSTEOPATH ARRESTED AS WIFE'S KILLER

(By Associated Press)

LACLEDE, Mo.—Dr. William F. Lamance, one time boxer who turned to osteopathy because he lost a bet with his father, has been charged with wife murder.

The body of Mrs. Ella Lamance, pretty and 29, was found Monday night on a cot in the vegetable cellar behind the doctor's home—across the street from the birthplace of Gen. John J. Pershing.

Lamance, the only doctor in this north central Missouri town of 650 population, made no statement. He joined a funeral procession to bury his wife at Williamsburg, Kas., near her childhood home. He was accompanied by two sheriffs' deputies.

Sheriff Max Brown discovered the corpse a short time after the 34-year-old osteopath reported his wife was missing. Brown said she apparently had been beaten to death a week before.

A coroner's jury yesterday heard Mrs. Nell Savage testify Mrs. Lamance had complained that her husband drank too much and "if I had the nerve I would leave."

The jury decided Mrs. Lamance had "come to her death by foul means" and recommended that the "parties suspected be held for further investigation."

Ten minutes later Prosecutor G. Derk Green charged Dr. Lamance with first degree murder.

Dr. Lamance became light heavyweight champion of the Illinois Young Men's Christian association in 1929 and later boxed in Madison Square, New York City.

Then the evangelist made a widely publicized bet that his son fighting as "Billy the Kid" Lamance, would quit the ring if he lost an important match. "Billy the Kid" lost and quit the ring.

HITS TRANSFER

Suit Seeks to Bar Payments From Pension Fund.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS—Robert L. Seeds of Columbus has filed a taxpayer's suit in common pleas court, asking that State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson and State Finance Director M. Ray Allison be enjoined from paying out the balance of $800,000 obtained July 20 from the state's general revenue fund for old-age pension.

John T. Farrell, director of taxpayers, incorporated, said the suit was sponsored by his organization.

The petition contended that if the money were borrowed from the state treasury, it violated a constitutional limitation of $750,000 in debts, and that it also could not constitutionally be considered as a transfer.

LAKE PEACHES AND GRAPES ON MARKET; VEGETABLES CHEAPER

Concord grapes, Lombard plums and peaches from the Lake Erie region will join the list of home grown fruits and vegetables that are being offered on the local markets this week. The blue grapes are also from the lake region.

The canning and jelly-making season is here in full force and there are a number of items that will be available at canning prices this next week. The coming of Ohio peaches may lower prices a little, but they will not come down to normal this season, according to produce men.

Sweet peppers, hot peppers, in the red, green, and yellow varieties are being sold by the bushel at reasonable prices for preserving. There are pickles of all sizes everywhere and cheaper than they have been in years, ranging in price from 20 to 30 cents a hundred.

Sweet corn, white and yellow, is cheap enough to can, dry or use for relish There is an abundance of it and most merchants are giving special prices on it for preserving purposes.

While it's too early to make grape jelly, the green ones may be used for a mixed elderberry-green grape jelly, and the berries are coming into the market now.

Shipped-in fruit will include strawberries, blueberries, an assortment of California grapes, plums and pears, and Hale peaches in the fancy sizes. Honey rocks and Persian melons, cantaloupes and water melons are at their height now.

There are several kinds of squash to add variety to the menu —the long, green Italian squash, and the acorn and summer varieties. Lima beans are plentiful, but expensive for the larger families. Brussel sprouts, cauliflower, kale and mustard greens and all kinds of fresh leaf greens are available at most markets

$24,000 HOURLY FROM TOURISTS

California Estimates What 'Trade' Means To State.

LOS ANGELES—(AP)—The All Year club of Southern California estimates that Eastern tourists pour a stream of trade at the rate of $24,000 an hour into Southern California.

In the first quarter of 1938, there have been 212 106 motoring tourists in the state, the club reported, an increase of 15.1 per cent over the corresponding period of last year

NEWSPAPERS AID GROWING LAWNS

Pastor Uses Them So He'll Have Smooth Lawn.

HAWKWELL, Eng. —(AP)— The local rector, aided by his parishioners' old newspapers, is going after the perfect lawn.

Spreading the papers out flat on the ground, he coats them with a thin layer of paste, sprinkles on grass see and folds them over like sandwiches. This system, he hopes, will give him a flat, smooth evenly sown lawn.

"Paper has been used before for a lawn foundation," he says, "but not newspapers so far as I know.

"Their great advantage is that they quickly pulp and let the young shoots through, at the same time protecting the seeds from the birds."

VOTE MACHINES DRAW CRITICISM

Trumbull Republican Leaders Say Method Too Slow, Costly.

WARREN — (INS) — Trumbull county Republican precinct committeemen, candidates and party workers have voiced overwhelming disapproval of the voting machines used in the last primary election.

Cited as reasons for the disapproval were the slowness with which the voting was done and the cost, described as a "burden to the taxpayers." Long lines were waiting at the machines when the polls closed Aug. 9, according to a resolution forwarded to the board of elections.

W. J. Hyde, chairman of the rally in which the machines were criticized, said the vote for the resolution condemning the machines was 300 to 25.

COUNCIL CLAIM SEEKS $2,000

Central Avenue Resident Says WPA Cut Away Grade in Front of Property.

City council had before it today a $2,000 claim for property damage as the result of the improvement of Central avenue last year by the Works Progress administration.

The claim on file with Council Clerk William J. Beer, jr., seeks $2,000 damages for the cutting away the support of 253 feet of frontage owned by Frank G Witter, Ashland road.

Witter, whose property is located on the northeast corner of Ashland road and Central avenue, claims that during the construction of Central avenue the west side of his property facing Central avenue was cut away "leaving an unsupported bank from 10 to 11 feet above the grade established on the street.

He claims the city was responsible for the damage to his lot, which had been improved to a "reasonable grade." He states that the street grade has been reduced to a point where it is damaging.

DOCTOR USES BEE STINGS

Gets Venom to Ease Pain of Arthritis Patients.

LOS ANGELES—(U.P.)—Dr. Raymond B Carey has received the city's permission to keep a colony of bees in his office, because he uses them in the treatment of arthritis. The bee's sting contains a venom which is "hemorrhagic and neurotoxic," he says, and patients endure it to rid themselves of the more persistent pains of disease

FIRE TRUCKS STOP ON 'RED'

London Rules Lost Minutes Won't Be Harmful.

LONDON— (AP) —Fire engines and ambulances do not have the right of way at traffic lights. A justice ruled recently in awarding $17,500 damages to a man who was injured when a car in which he was riding collided with a fire truck

If the light turns red, they must wait like other vehicles, he said. "In this case there would have been a couple of seconds lost and no more."

Tydings Joins O'Connor In Fighting Roosevelt Purge

N. Y. LAWMAKER CITES RULE BY DICTATORSHIP

Declares President's Slam at 'Betrayers' Smacks of Foreign Tactics.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — Sen. Millard E. Tydings, D., Md., read out of the Democratic party by President Roosevelt for "betraying" the New Deal, was said ready today to make a counter attack.

At Salisbury, Md., last night, in his first address since Mr. Roosevelt asked Maryland voters to defeat him, Tydings did not mention the White House action. But an address at Baltimore tonight or in a radio address Sunday he is expected to join two other objects of the president's party purge — Sen. Walter F. George., D., Ga., and Chairman John O'Connor, D., N. Y., of the house rules committee—and accept the president's challenge.

Hits 'Foreign' Tactics.

O'Connor "snatched up the gage" last night in a radio address from New York. He accused the president of using "foreign" tactics which, he said, provide an "escalator to dictatorship," and issued the same protest against "one-man government" that had been made earlier this week by George.

In his address to eastern shore farmers and businessmen, Tydings said that he never would consent to be "a rubberstamp or a ventriloquist's dummy." That was the closest he came to the intra-party controversy, but he announced that Sunday he would discuss "some matters that have come to your attention recently."

Aside from a short formal statement Tuesday, O'Connor's radio address was his first reply to the president's press conference purge statement. Mr. Roosevelt had described him as "one of the most effective obstructionists in the lower house."

O'Connor, who led the house fight against the government reorganization bill, at the last session, interpreted the president's action as a "challenge to our system of government."

"The word purge has been imported from foreign sources," he said. "It is brand new in America.

"It is not the challenge to me personally that matters. The president's attack on me and other members of congress is a challenge to America in its present form of government. It is an escalator to dictatorship.

"The repetitious disavowal of any desire to become a dictator cannot be taken at full faith when actions evidence to the contrary. No dictator in Europe would for one moment admit he is a dictator . . . They all claimed to be supported by a mandate from the people. . . .

"What the American people are seriously concerned about is this demand of the president for only 'yes men' in our parliament. . . .

"Let's have it out. If the people of the United States desire to extend an invitation to a dictatorship, we should know about it as soon as possible. If a purge is going to work in America, the sooner we know it the better."

Patrol Popular Priest's Home to Prevent Transfer

VULCAN, Mich. — (UP) — Two hundred parishioners of St. Barbara's Catholic church cautiously patroled the parish rectory today to prevent their pastor, the Rev. Simon Borowski, from leaving to take an assignment in another parish.

They have been picketing the church grounds in shifts for nearly two days and thus far have blocked a transfer order which Father Borkowski — known throughout upper Michigan as Father Simon—received last week from his superiors. He had been scheduled to report yesterday at the Salvatorian seminary at St. Nazianz, Wis.

He made one attempt to flee last night. He appeared at a rear door with his suitcases but turned back when the pickets surged forward.

They said they are against the transfer because Father Borkowski has treated them so well and is particularly popular among the children. They openly announced plans to use force, if necessary, to prevent the transfer.

Neil Maxwell, Bowman street restaurateur, today is wondering if he wasn't the victim of a practical joker. He tackled his first game of golf yesterday with a set of clubs borrowed from Walter (Friend) McGee. It seems Maxwell after lugging the bag and clubs several holes called for a caddy who also complained about the tremendous weight of the outfit. Removing the clubs from the bag, the caddy dumped out two flatirons. Maxwell says he can't find anything in the golf instructions that tells when a flatiron should be used on the course.

UPHOLDS ACTION OF TVA BOARD

Lilienthal Says He Considered It Duty to Handle Claims as Help to Roosevelt.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn.—(AP)—David E. Lilienthal, Tennessee Valley Authority director, arranged today to give more details of how the authority handled the claims of Sen. George L. Berry (D-Tenn) for damages to marble lands by waters of Norris dam reservoir.

The director told a congressional investigating committee yesterday that he considered it was the authority's job to handle the Berry claims without casting an additional burden upon President Roosevelt.

He disgressed at times, however, to renew discussion of his differences with Dr. A. E. Morgan, ousted TVA chairman.

Dr. Morgan, Lilienthal said, suggested in June, 1936, that the president be advised in a confidential memorandum of Senator Berry's claim for damages.

Previous testimony had been that Lilienthal and Harcourt A. Morgan now chairman, agreed at a meeting July 10, 1936, to conciliate the Berry claims, an overture opposed by A. E. Morgan.

Lilienthal said A. E. Morgan was not available for conferences during the period in which negotiations were underway regarding the claims.

30 ARABS KILLED IN CLASHES WITH TROOPS IN HOLY LAND

(By United Press)

JERUSALEM — At least 30 Arabs were killed and many wounded in clashes with British troops during the last 48 hours, it was announced today. British authorities said their military operations were the largest since the recent series of disorders began.

Several thousand troops were engaged in running down terrorists in scattered sessions.

Coincident were reports of a new British plan for dealing with terrorists, probably to be put into effect immediately. It was understood to include the most intensive search yet made for the sources of supplies of bombs and other munitions now in Palestine.

The latest clashes took place near Acre and Nablus. At Majdalkroom, near Acre, a large band of Arabs fired on a British patrol from ambush. It was estimated that the rebels suffered more than 50 casualties, including 13 killed. A British officer and soldier were killed and seven soldiers wounded.

Reinforcements were rushed to the area and the rebels were dispersed after a brisk fight. Officers said that the engagement was one of the largest since British troops took over control of the Holy Land.

At least 14 Arab rebels were killed, one British soldier killed and four wounded when troops surprised Arab rebel leaders in conference at Kafrharris village, near Nablus last night.

BURNS HOUSE HOLDING BODY OF HOUSEMAID

Minister, 51, Father of 2 Sons, Confesses, Says Victim Was Expectant Mother.

MANDAN, N. D. — (AP) — Rev. Helo Janssen, Evangelical Lutheran pastor at Krem, began a life prison sentence today a few hours after pleading guilty to poisoning his 16-year-old housemaid and firing the parsonage containing her body.

The minister, 51, admitted he killed Alma Kruckenberg because she was an expectant mother. District Judge H. L. Berry sentenced Janssen at a special court session. He was taken immediately to the state penitentiary.

Signs Confession.

The arraignment followed swiftly after Janssen signed a confession before State's Attorney Floyd Sperry of Mercer county admitting he perpetrated the crime Monday and burned his ten-room house that night.

"The devil overcame me," the pastor said impassively. "I did wrong. I have a very good Christian wife and two boys any father would be proud of and I feel only too sorry that I bring such grief to them."

Miss Kruckenberg was one of ten children in the family of Mr. and Mrs. John Kruckenberg, farmers near Krem which is located 60 miles north of Mandan. She had been employed at the parsonage since last January.

Sperry and Special Assistant Attorney General James Austin began questioning Janssen Tuesday morning. During two days of incessant interrogation, Sperry said, the minister denied any connection with the fire and burned body found in the ruins.

Thursday evening the parents of the murdered girl confronted Rev. Janssen and pleaded that he "tell the truth." The confession followed. Feeling ran so high in the community that trial was ordered immediately.

FAIR ENOUGH!

'I'm Glad You Asked Me' By Jimmy Roosevelt, a Little Late, Pegler Finds

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—While we were waiting for Jimmy Roosevelt to drop that other shoe there can be no harm in observing that, although the title of his piece is "I'm Glad You Asked Me," the question was put to the little eagle of the dynasty just about a year ago.

It was put up by Congressman Treadway—a Republican, to be sure, and thus a man of little standing in the eaglet's kingdom of Massachusetts—in a carefully prepared statement delivered on the floor of the house.

From the title, "I'm Glad You Asked Me," it might be thought that the question whether the president's son profited from dealings with firms subject to the whims of the government had been raised only yesterday and that Jimmy's reply in Collier's was the spontaneous comeback of a man quick to answer a challenge.

But Congressman Treadway on Aug. 14 last year reported to the house that he had been thwarted in an attempt to compel the joint committee on tax avoidance to analyze the eaglet's returns. He said that Jimmy did appear before the committee but that when he, Treadway, asked him some questions he was choked off. And, although Jimmy's tax return was offered for scrutiny, the committee voted down Mr. Treadway's request that an impartial expert be called to analyze it.

This committee was the one which went to town on the president's charge that many individuals, mainly royalists and copperheads, had used devices to evade and avoid their taxes. He mentioned unethical and immoral conduct. Some of those so accused vindicated themselves, but whether there was intent to smear and whether they were smeared notwithstanding the failure to convict them of anything worse than opinion. The returns of the accused were minutely analyzed and publicized, but those of the eaglet and Henry Morgenthau were protected from such scrutiny.

Incidentally, Jimmy himself, in his first installment under the title, "I'm Glad You Asked Me," admits that he split with his wife his interest in his insurance firm, thus reducing his federal and state taxes—a clever little scheme that his lawyer indorsed as having legality.

Alva Johnson and the Saturday Evening Post have been jabbed with the finger of scorn for putting a question which Jimmy says he is glad they asked, and there have been some murmurs of dirty journalism as well.

But, bless you, neither Mr. Johnson nor the Post asked the question first, nor as pointedly as a member of the United States congress holding a mandate from the people of Massachusetts, who, in consistency with the New Deal theory of mandates, may be presumed to have clamored for this information even as the committee clamored for information regarding the tax returns of the heretics.

If this was dirty journalism, by comparison with Mr. Treadway's remarks in congress, the papers aren't one-two-six with the members of the legislative body when it comes to lying and slander.

I think it only goes to show that Mr. Jesse Jones of the RFC spoke the whole personal philosophy of all the official New Dealers the other day when a reporter asked him to reconcile his demand for more lending by banks with the fact that his own banks have shown a decrease in such loans. Mr. Jones replied, "I don't want people to do as I do but do as I tell them."

Hollywood Speaks---

--By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Jules Garfield—now John—will never be a movie star. He will never be rich. He will never have a Beverly Hills shack with a swimming pool and four butlers.

His studio, since it saw him on the screen in "Four Daughters," is sure it has a new star. The ballyhoo's already loosed. But John will never be a movie star. He won't let himself be. He says the play's the thing, and very few acting names should go above its title.

Hollywood, for three years, has been offering him good money to come out and see it some time, for keeps. He's taking less money for the kind of contract he wants. On 60 days' notice he can go back to the stage any time. He doesn't want to be rich. He has a mission in life. . . .

John Garfield is 26. He is shorter than the average movie actor but well proportioned. His hair is black, his skin is olive, his teeth flash white. His manner and speech are cultured. He talks seriously of Great Things—as he sees them—just as if he'd learned it all at the finest of universities.

In a sense, he did. He was born on New York's lower east side. He was a problem child, a community menace, a Dead End kid. He says he's sure he could have been a gangster if it hadn't been for Angelo Patri, the child pyshologist.

Patri impressed him through kindness where others had failed with force. Patri suggested the theater as his vocation—and Garfield was an actor from that time on. In the Patri school, later in high school, he studied and practiced dramatics. He financed himself through the Hecksher Foundation on the $6 a week he made selling papers, plus a $5 weekly loan from Patri.

He carried a spear for Eva LeGallienne, Fritz Leiber and many others. He took time off for a cross-country hitch-hike to see America. He worked in California fruit orchards, in Nebraska wheat fields.

Franchot Tone left the rebellious Group theater for Hollywood six months before Garfield joined it. The only play outside the Group that Garfield has done since was "Having Wonderful Time." He thinks Hollywood ruined the play.

Like others of the Group, Garfield learned to eat scantily—for the sake of putting on plays with "ideas."

"My chief purpose," he says, "is to become constantly a better actor. But at the same time I want to do all I can for the advancement of liberal ideas. I was told Hollywood would be deadly dull—I find more exciting talk here than in New York."

He speaks of organizations—pro-democracy, anti-fascism—with enthusiasm. And of pictures like "Zola" and "They Won't Forget" and "Blockade" as the kind he wants to be in, the kind the screen is coming to. He is sure of that. The public—forsaking its old idea that great wealth is the ideal—is settling down to live, to read, to think. It will demand thought from the screen. It will tire of boy-meets-girl stuff.

Such talk—from an actor!

"Nothing can keep me from speaking my mind on the things I believe in," he says. "If money's the club, it won't work because I don't care about it. I can leave any time."

And the lad, believe me, is sincere. He'll never be a movie star. He talks too much.

UPHOLDS ACTION OF TVA BOARD

Lilienthal Says He Considered It Duty to Handle Claims as Help to Roosevelt.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn.—(AP)—David E. Lilienthal, Tennessee Valley Authority director, arranged today to give more details of how the authority handled the claims of Sen. George L. Berry (D-Tenn) for damages to marble lands by waters of Norris dam reservoir.

The director told a congressional investigating committee yesterday that he considered it was the authority's job to handle the Berry claims without casting an additional burden upon President Roosevelt.

He disgressed at times, however, to renew discussion of his differences with Dr. A. E. Morgan, ousted TVA chairman.

Dr. Morgan, Lilienthal said, suggested in June, 1936, that the president be advised in a confidential memorandum of Senator Berry's claim for damages.

Previous testimony had been that Lilienthal and Harcourt A. Morgan now chairman, agreed at a meeting July 10, 1936, to conciliate the Berry claims, an overture opposed by A. E. Morgan.

Lilienthal said A. E. Morgan was not available for conferences during the period in which negotiations were underway regarding the claims.

30 ARABS KILLED IN CLASHES WITH TROOPS IN HOLY LAND

(By United Press)

JERUSALEM — At least 30 Arabs were killed and many wounded in clashes with British troops during the last 48 hours, it was announced today. British authorities said their military operations were the largest since the recent series of disorders began.

Several thousand troops were engaged in running down terrorists in scattered sessions.

Coincident were reports of a new British plan for dealing with terrorists, probably to be put into effect immediately. It was understood to include the most intensive search yet made for the sources of supplies of bombs and other munitions now in Palestine.

The latest clashes took place near Acre and Nablus. At Majdalkroom, near Acre, a large band of Arabs fired on a British patrol from ambush. It was estimated that the rebels suffered more than 50 casualties, including 13 killed. A British officer and soldier were killed and seven soldiers wounded.

Reinforcements were rushed to the area and the rebels were dispersed after a brisk fight. Officers said that the engagement was one of the largest since British troops took over control of the Holy Land.

At least 14 Arab rebels were killed, one British soldier killed and four wounded when troops surprised Arab rebel leaders in conference at Kafrharris village, near Nablus last night.

"She took him for worse but he got better!"

BURNS HOUSE HOLDING BODY OF HOUSEMAID

Minister, 51, Father of 2 Sons, Confesses, Says Victim Was Expectant Mother.

MANDAN, N. D. — (AP) — Rev. Heio Janssen, Evangelical Lutheran pastor at Krem, began a life prison sentence today a few hours after pleading guilty to poisoning his 16-year-old housemaid and firing the parsonage containing her body.

The minister, 51, admitted he killed Alma Kruckenberg because she was an expectant mother. District Judge H. L. Berry sentenced Janssen at a special court session. He was taken immediately to the state penitentiary.

Signs Confession.

The arraignment followed swiftly after Janssen signed a confession before State's Attorney Floyd Sperry of Mercer county admitting he perpetrated the crime Monday and burned his ten-room house that night.

"The devil overcame me," the pastor said impassively. "I did wrong. I have a very good Christian wife and two boys any father would be proud of and I feel only too sorry that I bring such grief to them."

Miss Kruckenberg was one of ten children in the family of Mr. and Mrs. John Kruckenberg, farmers near Krem which is located 60 miles north of Mandan. She had been employed at the parsonage since last January.

Sperry and Special Assistant Attorney General James Austin began questioning Janssen Tuesday morning. During two days of incessant interrogation, Sperry said, the minister denied any connection with the fire and burned body found in the ruins.

Thursday evening the parents of the murdered girl confronted Rev. Janssen and pleaded that he "tell the truth." The confession followed. Feeling ran so high in the community that trial was ordered immediately.

FAIR ENOUGH!

'I'm Glad You Asked Me' By Jimmy Roosevelt, a Little Late, Pegler Finds

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—While we were waiting for Jimmy Roosevelt to drop that other shoe there can be no harm in observing that, although the title of his piece is "I'm Glad You Asked Me," the question was put to the little eagle of the dynasty just about a year ago.

It was put up by Congressman Treadway—a Republican, to be sure, and thus a man of little standing in the eaglet's kingdom of Massachusetts—in a carefully prepared statement delivered on the floor of the house.

From the title, "I'm Glad You Asked Me," it might be thought that the question whether the president's son profited from dealings with firms subject to the whims of the government had been raised only yesterday and that Jimmy's reply in Collier's was the spontaneous comeback of a man quick to answer a challenge.

But Congressman Treadway on Aug. 14 last year reported to the house that he had been thwarted in an attempt to compel the joint committee on tax avoidance to analyze the eaglet's returns. He said that Jimmy did appear before the committee but that when he, Treadway, asked him some questions he was choked off. And, although Jimmy's tax return was offered for scrutiny, the committee voted down Mr. Treadway's request that an impartial expert be called to analyze it.

This committee was the one which went to town on the president's charge that many individuals, mainly royalists and copperheads, had used devices to evade and avoid their taxes. He mentioned unethical and immoral conduct. Some of those so accused vindicated themselves, but whether there was intent to smear and whether they were smeared notwithstanding the failure to convict them of anything worse than opinion. The returns of the accused were minutely analyzed and publicized, but those of the eaglet and Henry Morgenthau were protected from such scrutiny.

Incidentally, Jimmy nimself, in his first installment under the title, "I'm Glad You Asked Me," admits that he split with his wife his interest in his insurance firm, thus reducing his federal and state taxes—a clever little scheme that his lawyer indorsed as having legality.

Alva Johnson and the Saturday Evening Post have been jabbed with the finger of scorn for putting a question which Jimmy says he is glad they asked, and there have been some murmurs of dirty journalism as well.

But, bless you, neither Mr. Johnson nor the Post asked the question first, nor as pointedly as a member of the United States congress holding a mandate from the people of Massachusetts, who, in consistency with the New Deal theory of mandates, may be presumed to have clamored for this information even as the committee clamored for information regarding the tax returns of the heretics.

If this was dirty journalism, by comparison with Mr. Treadway's remarks in congress, the papers aren't one-two-six with the members of the legislative body when it comes to lying and slander.

I think it only goes to show that Mr. Jesse Jones of the RFC spoke the whole personal philosophy of all the official New Dealers the other day when a reporter asked him to reconcile his demand for more lending by banks with the fact that his own banks have shown a decrease in such loans. Mr. Jones replied, "I don't want people to do as I do but do as I tell them."

Hollywood Speaks---

--By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Jules Garfield—now John—will never be a movie star. He will never be rich. He will never have a Beverly Hills shack with a swimming pool and four butlers.

His studio, since it saw him on the screen in "Four Daughters," is sure it has a new star. The ballyhoo's already loosed. But John will never be a movie star. He won't let himself be. He says the play's the thing, and very few acting names should go above its title.

Hollywood, for three years, has been offering him good money to come out and see it some time, for keeps. He's taking less money for the kind of contract he wants. On 60 days' notice he can go back to the stage any time. He doesn't want to be rich. He has a mission in life. . . .

John Garfield is 26. He is shorter than the average movie actor but well proportioned. His hair is black, his skin is olive, his teeth flash white. His manner and speech are cultured. He talks seriously of Great Things—as he sees them—just as if he'd learned it all at the finest of universities.

In a sense, he did. He was born on New York's lower east side. He was a problem child, a community menace, a Dead End kid. He says he's sure he could have been a gangster if it hadn't been for Angelo Patri, the child pyshologist.

Patri impressed him through kindness where others had failed with force. Patri suggested the theater as his vocation—and Garfield was an actor from that time on. In the Patri school, later in high school, he studied and practiced dramatics. He financed himself through the Heckscher Foundation on the $6 a week he made selling papers, plus a $5 weekly loan from Patri.

He carried a spear for Eva LeGallienne, Fritz Leiber and many others. He took time off for a cross-country hitch-hike to see America. He worked in California fruit orchards, in Nebraska wheat fields.

Franchot Tone left the rebellious Group theater for Hollywood six months before Garfield joined it. The only play outside the Group that Garfield has done since was "Having Wonderful Time." He thinks Hollywood ruined the play.

"My chief purpose," he says, "is to become constantly a better actor. But at the same time I want to do all I can for the advancement of liberal ideas. I was told Hollywood would be deadly dull—I find more exciting talk here than in New York."

He speaks of organizations—pro-democracy, anti-fascism—with enthusiasm. And of pictures like "Zola" and "They Won't Forget" and "Blockade" as the kind he wants to be in, the kind the screen is coming to. He is sure of that. The public—forsaking its old idea that great wealth is the ideal—is settling down to live, to read, to think. It will demand thought from the screen. It will tire of boy-meets-girl stuff.

Such talk—from an actor!

"Nothing can keep me from speaking my mind on the things I believe in," he says. "If money's the club, it won't work because I don't care about it. I can leave any time."

And the lad, believe me, is sincere. He'll never be a movie star. He talks too much.

ADAPTABLE JACKET

Ostrich plumes are riding high in Paris. Here you see them in blue violet, mist blue and petunia, rising in a frivolous cascade on a little hat of blued gray felt. They are typical of a befeathered trend in fall chapeaux.
